QUIZ ALLEGED MESSENGER

Officials Seek To Learn More
Names In Morehouse
Parish AffairsBy Associated Press
Bastrop, La.—This was "ladies day" at the open hearing in connection with the investigation into "hooded band" murders in Morehouse Parish. Eight women have been summoned as witnesses to testify during the day.

The testimony of Mrs. T. F. Richard, widow of one of the hooded band victims, Wednesday is responsible for the calling of several of the women Thursday. She testified to a conversation said to have taken place between Mrs. Hugh Clark, Mrs. Lewis, Mrs. McIlwain and Mrs. Inabert, following the first kidnapping of her husband. She claimed that her husband treated the affair lightly which seemed to have irritated Mrs. Clark who remarked to Mrs. Lewis, Mrs. Inabert, and Mrs. McIlwain that the next time the Ku Klux got Richard he would not get off so light.

CALL ALLEGED MESSENGER

Fred Higgenbotham, alleged messenger for the blackhooded band at the time Thomas Richard was first kidnapped in August, was the first witness to take the stand Thursday. During the months of July and August of last year, Higgenbotham said he was a café owner and taxicab operator.

"Do you remember an occasion on or about the 17th of August when it was said T. F. Richard was taken by a band of hooded men from a garage in Bastrop?"

"Yes, I was on my way to Mer Rouge."

"Did you go to Mer Rouge?"

"No, I was held by masked men right outside of town. They were armed with pistols and shotguns. I was frightened and paid no attention to the number of guns."

"Did you see any one there who was unmasked?"

"Yes, Harry Neels."

MET IN COURTHOUSE

Higgenbotham declared the last meeting of the Morehouse Klan he attended was held in the Parish courthouse. He could not remember who was at the meeting other than Skip with and L. L. Home.

Lengthy questioning as to Klan affairs brought repeated declarations from the witness he knew nothing of the business of the Parish Klan.

Higgenbotham was mentioned by Harry Neels, reputed automobile salesman who testified Wednesday as one who seemed active in carrying messages between men who took part in the kidnapping of Richard on Aug. 17 or 18 last—when he was taken into the works and questioned but later released.

Higgenbotham denied he conversed with Neels at that time to the extent stated by Neels and as stated that he too, had been held up by the blackhooded band and that his reason for being in the vicinity was that he was on his way from Bastrop to Mer Rouge to buy an automobile.

"Do you approve of what happened to Daniel and Richard?" Higgenbotham was asked.

SEEK NAMES OF FARES

Higgenbotham, who operates service cars between the towns of this section, was questioned at length as to several recent trips and the identity of his fares. He declared the men he transported, and whose identity state's attorneys seemed anxious to learn, were strangers to him.

Higgenbotham was asked the direct question as to whether he did not go on the Mer Rouge Bastrop ride at the time Richard was held up to talk with the men engaged in the holdup.

"I did not," replied Higgenbotham. Higgenbotham said he was released after a short time by the hooded men and ordered to return to Bastrop.

He said he did not think it necessary to report the occurrence to the officials here that he did not think it "important," and thought possibly Neels would report it.

COMMISSION TO PROBE
INTO RAILROAD EXPENSES

Washington—Notice was served on railroads of the country Thursday by the Interstate Commerce commission that the commission intended to proceed immediately with an investigation of the expenditures during the past months on maintenance of equipment and the methods they have followed in providing freight car service for shippers.

Though the commission's order instituting the investigation, said that no formal complaint had been made as to railroad expenditures on maintenance, informal petitions asking for an inquiry have been filed recently by the International Association of Machinists and other unions which were involved in the general shop crafts strike which began last July.

GOVERNOR URGES BIG CHANGES IN WISCONSIN TAXATION LAWS
IN MESSAGE TO LEGISLATURE

By Associated Press

Madison—Far reaching changes in the Wisconsin revenue laws, calling for an adjustment between general property and income taxes by increasing the burden on incomes while decreasing it on general property, were recommended by Gov. J. J. Blaine Thursday in his message to the fifty-sixth Wisconsin legislature. Addressing a joint meeting of the two houses, both of them under his control, the governor asked repeal of all surtaxes on incomes and on property, totaling $7,000,000 annually with the substitution in their stead of a ratio between the revenue returns from incomes and from property. This ratio would be adhered to by successive legislatures in enacting laws to raise funds to finance all state projects including schools, highways, and the teachers' insurance and retirement fund.

REPEAL SECRECY CLAUSE
Governor Blaine called upon the legislature to repeal the secrecy clause to the income tax law, to repeal the personal property tax offset to the income tax law, to raise the exemptions under the income tax, and to establish a tax on stock dividends and bank stock. He suggested an increased appropriation for the tax commission to investigate back income reports. The result of enactment of these laws would be greatly increased returns from incomes with relief to general property, the governor said.

To finance a highway program, tempered to the ability of the state to pay for it, the governor asked enactment of a new law establishing a graduated license fee based upon weight and horse power. He expressed opposition to a valuation tax on automobiles and made no mention of the gasoline tax, urged by county boards. It was suggested by him that the personal property tax against automobiles should be continued.

URGES MODIFIED RECALL
The initiative and referendum was recommended by Governor Blaine who asked in addition, a modified recall of elective officers and legislative intervention and dismissal of appointive officers.

The basic eight hour day in industry was recommended by the executive. He also urged larger benefits for dependents suffering as a result of industrial accidents, increase in the maximum wage limit for compensation under the state compensation insurance law, and a law to require employers to provide insurance protection for employees.

Abolition of the injunction in labor disputes, was suggested by Governor Blaine. It was recommended by him that laws be enacted requiring railroads to provide sheds for car repairs, and that a law be passed preventing railroads from moving their shops from Wisconsin unless it is shown that there is a public necessity for this action.

HELP FOR SOLDIERS
He asked that surpluses from the soldiers' bonus fund and the soldiers' educational bonus fund, be set aside as a special fund, the income from which is to be used for the treatment and rehabilitation of former soldiers.

The "tendency in Wisconsin education toward development of machinery," was deplored by the governor. He pointed to the large increase in the number of instructors at the university which he said was out of proportion to the increase in the number of students, and asked a cut in the appropriation for an "amount that will furnish the necessary and proper staff."

The death of Constantine came after a series of trying experiences which the former ruler of the Hellenes had undergone, beginning with the outbreak of the World war.

Lutz Horses
Drowned In Lake Plunge

While removing snow from the ice on Lake Winnebago Wednesday morning a team of horses belonging to Lutz Ice Co. was accidentally driven into open water by Louis Rohrbach and drowned before the animals could be rescued.

The drowning was due to darkness and to a fierce blizzard that was driving snow over a space from which ice had been removed.

Mr. Rohrbach started out with the team at 6 o'clock to remove the snow before the regular day's work of cutting ice commenced, and did not see the open space in time. The water was 16 feet deep where the horses went in and both were removed from the lake in less than half an hour.

The team was one which the company purchased last summer and assisted the heavy motor trucks in the delivery of ice to patrons. It was the first loss of this kind the company has had in more than 12 years.

REFUSE ROOM TO
NEGRO AT HARVARDFathér, Graduate, Asks Place In Freshman Halls For Son
—Turned DownBy Associated Press
New York—A request of Roscoe Conkling Bruce a Negro graduate of Harvard university that a room be reserved in the freshman halls at Harvard for his son has been refused by President Lowell, a letter published in the New York World Thursday disclosed.

Replying to Mr. Bruce, President Lowell wrote:

"I am sorry to have to tell you that in the freshman halls where residence is compulsory, we have felt from the beginning the necessity of not including colored men. To the other dormitories and dining rooms they are admitted freely."

In a letter written to President Lowell, Bruce said:

"The policy of compulsory residence in the freshman halls is costly indeed, if it is the thing that constrains Harvard to enter open-eyed and brusque upon a policy of racial discrimination. Not race, but culture, I had supposed, is the basis of sound nationality."

FIRE "JINX" RAZES TWO

Nahma, Mich.—Officials of the Bay De Nocquet Lumber co. have started construction of new community house to serve as a "jinx" to a "fire jinx" that has destroyed two other fine structures within the past year. The new clubhouse, used by its employees, will be of the same design and equipped similar to the $35,000 building which was recently burned to the ground.MORE MEN IN

censing Discussed At Convention

After the address of C. L. Bailey of Chicago in which he told of what the Building Trades school in Chicago has done to train new men in the trades, another long discussion of the apprenticeship problem took place at the Thursday morning session of the Master Builders association convention at Eagle hall. The meeting was called to order at 10 o'clock. O. H. Ulbricht of Milwaukee gave his secretary's report which included the business of the Master Builder, the association's magazine. H. C. Zickert of Watertown made the treasurer's report. These were accepted and turned over to the auditing committee.

The report of the local secretaries which was scheduled for Thursday morning, was postponed until after the session on Thursday afternoon when the wage scales from the different communities will have been made into bulletin form by a sign painter. The wage reports of the local secretaries are among the most important matters of business brought up and were postponed because it is hard for the members to get the complete wage scale when the reports are made from the floor only.

WILLING TO HELP
W. S. Ford, director of the Appleton Vocational school took an important part in the discussion which followed Mr. Bailey's speech. He urged the master builders to cooperate with the vocational schools in their own localities in order to get the instruction that they want. Mr. Ford explained that the schools were ready to do all in their power to establish these forms of trade schools that the men need. He said that the thing which the schools are constantly working on is actual contact and cooperation with the builders themselves and because they had not been able to get this cooperation, the school training has been hampered.

Mr. Bailey explained that in the Chicago school they advertise for boys who want to learn a certain trade, then they are given two weeks training in the school in such work as a beginner can do on the job. Their training is under a man who has had

MIDWEST IS BUSY;
WORK FOR NEARLY ALLMost Active Winter Season In Years Is Reported By Labor Department

Chicago—The most active winter in recent years is reported by department of labor officials in reporting on employment conditions in Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio and Wisconsin. Handicaps in transportation is almost the only retarding cause noted in this section.

From Michigan the report states automobile production is unprecedented for midwinter. Unemployment has reached a minimum and is on the up grade. Textile production has been above normal and seasonal retail buying reflects prospects. Newspaper production is comparable with the best month of 1920.

WISCONSIN BUSY
Lumber and cement plants in Wisconsin are turning out a heavy volume of business. The textile industry is above normal and the lumber industry is steadily improving. Steel mills are operating between 75 and 80 per cent of capacity. Car shortage has noticeably affected industry in general.

Increase in operation in all lines of the Milwaukee district has absorbed supply of labor. In Oshkosh, Kenosha, Wausau, Rhinelander, Green Bay, Fond du Lac, Madison and Eau Claire production has almost reached the point of employing all available labor. Superior reports a shortage of workers in railroad shops. Woodville Sheboygan reports a shortage of skilled labor and a surplus of trainees. A heavy demand for woods men is being made at Eau Claire.

SITUATION IN APPLETON

Reports from employers here indicate there is very little unemployment. Some of the papermills, it is said, are receiving a few applicants for jobs but as a general thing most men who want work can find it.

Wheels Hum, Furnaces
Roar In Ruhr PlantsBy Associated Press
Bochum—"Business as usual," would seem to be the motto of this busy little counterpart of Pittsburgh where lie the tools of the fortune of Hugo Stinnes, Germany's greatest capitalist.

Riding through the city during the night, the correspondent saw the ridges of the Ruhr valley lit up with flame that belched from the many furnaces of the iron and steel works. Gaunt buildings stretched for miles and miles. In them worked the 25,000 men whom Stinnes employed.

The plants turn out approximately 400,000 tons of iron and steel products yearly, keeping five blast furnaces busy.

There was no indication that the workers or their employers were thinking of the French troops so near at hand.

When the correspondent asked the workers "Where's Stinnes?" they answered, "Stinnes—that capitalist?" "Oh, he's in Berlin or somewhere, we do the work, he gets the money."

Plans Journey
To Honolulu In
Box As 'Freight'By Associated Press
Honolulu—The case of Ira Colver Sparks late of Peru, Ind., San Francisco and points east who shipped himself to Honolulu in a box labeled "freight" is proving a puzzle to the authorities. Ira arrived on a Japanese steamer from San Francisco and might have succeeded in his stow-away scheme had not the loneliness and confinement told on his nerves. He lived in the box of 31 cubic feet dimensions for five days, barely able to move and existing on tinned food and water. He had shipped the box as "freight" obtained a bill of lading and believed he could dig himself out undetected when he reached this port.

The steamship officials turned him over to a hospital. Then as soon as his cramped joints began to operate he was transferred to jail.

Advance From Several Directions — Berlin Ambassador Leaves Paris — Cuno Declares Treaty Broken and Void

French troops entered Essen, the heart of the Ruhr valley, Thursday, carrying out the occupation movement determined upon by France, Belgium and Italy. The occupation was without incident and up to Thursday afternoon the new invasion of Germany had been accomplished without bloodshed or even disorders of any kind.

Nearly all the troops employed were French—two divisions of infantry and one of cavalry, commanded by Colonel Henrys, under General Degoutte's direction.

The French advanced from Dusseldorf and Duisburg. A small Belgian contingent came down through Ruhrort and joined the French near Muelheim.

While the troops were entering the Ruhr, the French mission which will control the mines and other essential industries was on the way from Dusseldorf under instructions, from Paris.

EVACUATION
MORAL BLOW TO FRENCHMAN

Ambassador Leaves Paris

With the carrying out of the military movement further into Germany, Dr. Wilhelm Mayer, German ambassador to France, left Paris for Berlin.

Simultaneously Chancellor Cuno, in the Reichstag, declared Germany's reparations obligation would cease to be discharged in further direct dealings with "the treaty breaking powers." Germany would not offer active resistance, but would not bow voluntarily to the movement, he added.

Last Of Military Support To Allies
On Way Home—
News DramaticBy Associated Press
Copyright, 1923, by the Post Pub. Co.
Washington—The Stars and Stripes are ordered home from the Rhine.

The last vestige of American military support remaining in Europe since the armistice of 1918 has been withdrawn. Only 1,200 soldiers of the American army of occupation have been on the Rhine for many months but they meant much more than their numbers as an evidence of the moral support which the United States has been giving France and the Allies in the carrying out of the terms of armistice and the treaties of peace.

Although no comment accompanied the announcement that the United States government's sudden decision to withdraw the troops, there is no doubt that the government here wants to ring round the world as the protest of a disinterested nation against the mistaken theory of France that Germany must be penalized by force for her inability to pay her reparations debt.

BRITISH HOLD MEETING

The British cabinet held a meeting to consider the reparations issue. It was stated on authority that the meeting was not likely to alter the British policy and was likely to confirm Great Britain's desire to maintain the entire cordiality with France.

Notification of the decision to withdraw the American troops from the Rhine was received by Major General Allen in Coblenz, who prepared to carry out the plans for the return of the troops to the United States.

In Washington it was understood the recall of troops would not be followed by withdrawal of American participation in the reparations commission under the present policy of the administration.

WHAT GERMANY WILL DO

Amsterdam—An Exchange telegraph dispatch from Berlin Thursday asserts that the German government has decided to take the following measures immediately after the French occupation is accomplished:

First, the peace treaty will be declared broken and its execution declared imperative.

Second, Germany will no longer negotiate with the reparations commission unless this injustice is removed.

Third, the use of alcoholic liquors will be reduced.

Fourth, Sunday will be declared a day of national mourning.

FIGHT FIRE WITH BLANKETS, BROOMS WHEN CARS IGNITE

Bystanders At Bunkelman Garage, Seymour, Stop Flames In Two Automobiles

Justicious use of brains, blankets and brooms prevented destruction of several automobiles and possibly the lives and garage of William Bunkelman and son at Seymour about 10 o'clock Thursday evening when an engine and the oilsoaked floor took fire from sparks from a magneto. Two Ford cars were damaged.

An employee of the garage was cleaning the magneto in one of the cars with a rag soaked with gasoline, while the motor of the car was in operation. It was said that Sparks from the cloth and the gasoline around the engine caught fire. The flames spread quickly to the floor and set fire to the engine of another Ford nearby.

Several men pushed the latter car to the street where the flames were smothered with blankets. It was burning more briskly than the first one to become afire. Some of the men hesitated to go near the flaming gasoline for fear of an explosion, but T. J. Graham, a merchant who had preceded to be in the place, seized all the tools in sight and began smothering the flames. Others then aided, some using brooms to stamp out the blaze on the floor.

The Seymour fire department had been summoned but there was little to do when the firemen arrived.

Engines of both automobiles were damaged and the enamel blistered badly by the heat. There was little damage to the building.

More Men In Trades, Need Of Builders

At least five years work on the job himself. Some of the Chicago instructors have been contractors for more than 30 years and certainly know their work from the practical man's standpoint. After the two weeks, the contractors take the boys and put them on the job at one third of the journeymen's wages and continued to send them to school for one full day every two weeks.

HOW IT IS FINANCED

The Chicago school is financed by the builders themselves. The general contractors take care of the light, heat and upkeep of the building, while the contractors in each line take care of the expense of the departments which train men for them. It has been working out well under the direction of the citizens committee and the close cooperation and supervision of the contractors themselves. Mr. Bailey emphasized the necessity for close supervision of the contractors on the job and in the school. He brought out that the more interest they put into the school the better results they get.

E. H. Davidson of St. Paul who will be the speaker at the banquet on Thursday evening, took part in the discussion. He urged that the aid of the merchants be enlisted through the Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Davidson said that the falling off in the trades is a matter for the public to consider.

H. A. Wagner of Milwaukee, president of the Wisconsin Bridge and Iron company, talked on the licensing of contractors. He said that he felt certain that the contractors who were present could not have started into business themselves had there been licensing laws at that time because most contractors got their start when they had little or no capital and had to win on their own merits. He said that now that his company is on its feet, it has some competition from the so called fly-by-night contractors who are just getting started and he maintained that these men had a right to get started. Some fall and others succeed, he said.

The speaker said that he questioned the intent of the legislation concerning the contractors' licenses was merely for the public good but that he suspected that there was some desire to protect the contractors' health and prosperity. He urged against legislation as a form of bettering the condition of the contractors who are beset by unfair competition.

At noon on Thursday, 350 delegates were registered. More than 200 attended the dancing party at Eagle hall on Wednesday evening. Tickets were given out with the registration good for any performance at the Appleton theatre. These tickets were placed to take the place of the more formal theatre party.

William Ford of Janesville gave an interesting address on the reasons for belonging to the Master Builders association. He said that it was not so much what the organization could do for the present builders but what the present builders can do for those who are to come. He recited the poem "The Bridge Builder" to prove his point. The master Mr. Ford a vote of thanks for his talk and urged that the men take it as a working policy.

The afternoon session is being held in Lawrence Memorial chapel. A discussion of the proposed unemployment compensation insurance bill will be led by State Senator H. A. Huber of Stoughton, author of the bill, and F. H. Clausen, Horicon, well known manufacturer. Clausen will oppose the bill and a general discussion will follow.

Officers are to be elected and the next convention city selected at this afternoon's gathering. A banquet will be held in Eagle hall this evening, with E. H. Davidson of St. Paul as the chief speaker.

To Wed Riches But Will Support Wife With Atr

St. Charles, Ill.—Through an early marriage, Lester Xorris, son of the town undertaker here, who's just turned 22 and draws pictures for a living, hopes to bridge the golden gulf of wealth which stands between him and Dellora Anzell 29, his $40,000,000 heiress bride to be.

That's why the ceremony will be performed early next spring, instead of waiting several more years, until "Lucky Lee" as the townfolk here call him, can advance sufficiently in his art work to enjoy an increase in his present $80 a week more or less salary," as he puts it.

Asked how it felt to be engaged to the world's richest girl, the youngster declared that a love such as theirs should no longer be permitted to further brave the perils and barriers of money.

"Other fellows with girls they are planning to marry, should feel happy that their sweethearts haven't the wealth that the mine Dellora has," he said.

"Because of money, I almost lost her—foolish that I was. We had grown up in St. Charles together as kids. We went to the same school and church, and she was my girl planned for the day when I could make her my wife."

"Then one day came the news that she had been made heiress to all the fortune of her uncle, Beta-Million John W. Gates."

"I was glad for her of course. But my heart turned sad. How could I ever ask her to marry me, when she had so much and I so comparatively little?"

It was thoughts like this that kept me from proposing to her and then when I did stir up enough courage to ask the question, I did it through the mails.

"Before she was just my Dellora. But after the money came, things seemed different. But only to me."

"Money never made a bit of change in her, not a bit. But as I have told you, it almost cost me the girl who will soon become my wife. It just goes to show that a fellow doesn't know a thing about women."

"Not that I ever lost one bit of faith in her you understand. But it was just that feeling in me of littleness—she with everything, I with very little—that kept me from dreaming as I had always dreamt, of Dellora as my wife."

"That's why I say, that chaps who are engaged to girls who have no money ought to consider themselves lucky. Because, they might foolishly let money interfere, and make them afraid to ask the girl to marry them, when the girl probably would consent."

"Both Dellora and myself agree that since fate declared she should have so much money, we had better be married as soon as possible. By marrying young, both of us feel that we can better grow up to an intelligent appreciation of the future, and more wisely use the fortune for good which has been left to her."

"I don't know how Dellora will use her money, and I don't care so long as she uses it for good purposes, which I know she will. However, I'll be the provider for the house and foot the bills myself. We'll have a small car, and perhaps she'll have a maid. Of course I'll have to draw a lot of pictures to pay for things, but with her to inspire me the thing will be easy."

SUFFRAGIST PROSPECTS IN BRAZIL ARE BRIGHT

By Associated Press

Rio De Janeiro—Mrs. Carrier Chapman Catt, the famous American woman suffrage leader who may visit this country to assist the local organizations in their fight for the vote, will find the campaign will under way upon her arrival. At the moment the battle is centered about a bill which is under discussion in the chamber of deputies. If the bill becomes a law, which is said to be more likely this year than at any previous time in Brazil's history, the women of this land will be on the same political footing as the men.

Publicists and the press have taken up the fight, and all the arguments that preceded the granting of the vote to the women of England, America, Norway and the score of other countries where equal suffrage is now a matter of course, are being put forth here with the same, if not a greater degree of enthusiasm, as in the other countries.

Even the opponents of the idea admit that eventually the women will have their way. They are opposing the bill merely to preserve man's present advantage as long as may be possible.

RETIREMENT LAW MAKES TEACHING MORE ATTRACTIVE

Principal B. J. Rohan Discusses Wisconsin Law At Meeting Of Teachers

The teachers' retirement fund as a movement toward making teaching more attractive, and places in which teachers may safely invest their money were the topics discussed by Ben Rohan and Dudley McFarland of the Guarantee Trust Co. of New York at a meeting of the Appleton Teachers association, Wednesday evening. The meeting followed a supper at the Y. M. C. A. with special music at numbers by Dean Waterman of Lawrence conservatory.

Mr. McFarland dealt principally with the various types of bonds and pointed out what to look for in a bond when ready for investment. The discussion which followed his talk and the questions asked him centered around the type of bond making the best investment.

Mr. Rohan discussed the teachers' retirement fund movement and more specifically the law in Wisconsin. "The Wisconsin state retirement law was passed in order that certain educational problems of the state might be solved," Mr. Rohan said. "These problems arose because of certain conditions in the teaching profession. The number of men who are in the work is growing less each year and has gradually dwindled from 43 per cent in 1880 to 10 per cent in 1918. This is due to better salaries elsewhere and because of a dislike for the work. The matter of a dislike for teaching cannot be helped much but the matter of salary can. Boys need men because there are certain boy problems that only men can solve. If our children are to have a well-balanced education, our schools must not become effeminate. There are about only 1,700 men in our schools and there ought to be 4,500. Wisconsin today could use about 3,000 more men and then not have too many."

"Again, the big turn over in the teaching force amounting to as much as 50 per cent in one year, in some places, has caused much inefficiency. Right now, better than 20 per cent of our teachers are having their first year of experience. Better than 20 per cent have had less than three years of experience. It takes about four years before one hits his or her teaching stride and is capable of producing the best work. It takes a year to become acquainted with one's students and the community in which one teaches. Regardless of experience and training one must know his students and his community before good work can be done. If this is the case, 50 per cent of the teachers in our schools are not in a position to give the best service, because they either have not had the experience or have moved from place to place often. The result is that every third child is from one to three years behind grade for his age. This represents a big loss of life and money."

One way to overcome this is to make teaching an attractive profession, by making the tenure of office more secure and giving more adequate compensation, so that one may have a living, saving and enjoyment way. While this is not a stated purpose of the law it will tend to have this effect. This in turn will tend to attract and hold strong people and thus gradually solve the problems mentioned.

"In brief, the law requires that each teacher put in 5 per cent of her salary each month and the state will put in all the way from 1 to 200 per cent of the amount the teacher puts in, depending entirely upon her length of service. All teachers under 25 do not pay in because 50 per cent of those who start teaching stop before that age. This means that there are about 5,000 teachers who come under the law. No teacher gets very much benefit from this law before she hits her teaching stride. It is so framed that the longer one teaches the larger is the percentage put in by the state, thus making it more attractive. To get the benefit of this fund one must teach 25 years or be 50 years of age, with some exceptions for disability."

"As a whole the law makes teaching more attractive and this cannot but help to have a beneficial effect upon our schools. In the Second district we have attracted and retained good teachers so that our overage is only 6 per cent, which means that we are saving the salaries of three teachers we would need if the same conditions prevailed here as in many parts of the state. This desirable condition can be made to prevail through out Wisconsin and thus bring about a big saving."

THE REPARATIONS PROBLEM

Statements of the British and French governments at the premiers' conference have at last brought the reparations sum down where the average man can appreciate what it means. Both France and Britain appear to think that a fair amount is fifty billion gold marks, or twelve billion dollars.

Twelve billion dollars, the sum now demanded of Germany for payment after the most disastrous war in history, is just twelve times the indemnity imposed upon France by Germany after the short war of 1870. It is about one billion dollars more than the total war debts of the allies to the United States.

Difficult as it may be to realize that a larger amount was at first expected the fact is that the reparations commission was instructed by the treaty of Versailles to ask from Germany twenty-four billion dollars—more than the national debt of the United States, the world's richest nation—as soon as the commission felt that Germany would be able to stand the load of interest and sinking fund. The first twenty billion marks were to be redeemed in gold by May 1, 1921.

As every one knows the whole scheme has fallen down. The oversight upon German taxation, to make sure that the Germans were turning in at least as much as the allies, proved a failure. The grand totals, out of all relation to Germany's self-estimated capacity to pay, which were demanded by the reparations commission only served to discourage the Germans and dissuade them from any purpose they may have had of paying up. Their evasion has been accompanied by a steady trend toward national ruin along the currency inflation route. If a reasonable sum had been set up in the first place Germany might have been in a frame of mind to establish her currency and discharge her obligations as early as possible.

For this series of retreats from one reparations "minimum" to another, each shift apparently just too late, the British blame the French and their militarist designs. They say reparations, which should be settled as a matter of economics, are being used by the French as pawns in a political game. The long-urged theory that there are no longer any fruits of victory in war and that impoverishing a trading neighbor is merely impoverishing one's self is meantime gaining confirmation.

STEFANSSON TO EXPLOIT THE ARCTIC NORTH

By abandoning the hazardous, daring profession of exploration, Vilhjalmur Stefansson shows the wisdom which rises superior to addition to adventure. He has acquired fame enough; so much that popularity and applause should be as flat to him as acre after acre of snow and ice. Frequent trips to the far off wilds at the top of the earth have chilled and hardened the spirit of romance as the polar wind cracks, splits and breaks frozen inorganic matter, as if exaggerating the unending bleakness with howls and creaks of utter desolation.

The wise man decides that glory and perilous enterprise are inconsequential unless they are capitalized with commercial and scientific achievement. Wherein lies the profit of discovering new territory? What good does it do to mankind to behold great stores of natural resources and simply tell of them? Why keep on finding new parts of the earth and more treasures, and leave the gains to future generations? Why undergo hardships and take more risks when it is possible to live in comfortable circumstances and reap the reward that intrepidity and sacrifices merit?

Stefansson can serve himself and the world to real and better purpose by encouraging capital and organizing movements to develop the expansive Arctic region. Land in the North is adapted to agriculture as is now generally conceded. The natural resources, including ores and minerals, are immense and valuable. Climatic conditions are not insuperable. If Stefansson can direct commercial enterprise toward the North Pole, and with it conquer the unconquered extreme frigid zone, he should enrich himself and the peoples of the earth.

DESTROYED

Enough trees to yield thirty-two billion board feet of lumber were chopped down in our country last year.

No figure is available, to show how many more trees were cut down than were planted. But it would be a mighty big figure.

Few economic perils are more dangerous than the rapid depletion of our forests. Why kill, by degrees, the goose laying gold eggs?

OUT OF BALANCE

British miners are said to be working for about $11 a week, seven hours daily. That is how their coal can be shipped far across the Atlantic and undersell the product of American miners, here in the home market.

In contrast, Pennsylvania miners averaged $8.10 per day of eight hours in 1921, the last checked up, according to R. M. Bryan of the Black Diamond, coal trade journal.

Cases like this emphasize how the world is out of balance industrially. Internationally normalcy is far in the future.

WHY NOT PLANT NUT TREES?

You may be going to plant some trees this spring. Then why not plant nut trees? The more we go into the subject of trees the more astonishing the subject becomes. They are certainly money-makers if handled with care. In "Trees as Good Citizens" we find the statement that $110,000,000 is invested in walnuts in California and that the annual crop runs between ten and twelve million dollars. The yield on almonds out there is two million dollars. The same sort of a story can be told about the pecan. The yield in 1919 was nearly thirty-two million pounds, which sold for six million dollars. Texas got about half of that revenue. When it comes to roadside tree planting, Charles Lathrop Pack, the author of "Trees as Good Citizens," points out the value of the black walnut and other varieties.

In California, the highway authorities are planting many miles of roadway with black walnut trees. Stretches of roads lined with magnificent trees of this species may be found in many places in that state. One of the finest of these borders the Lincoln highway fifteen miles west of Sacramento.

In Livingston county, Michigan, there are numerous splendid rows of black walnut trees from 50 to 60 years of age which are among the beauty spots of the state's highway system. One of Michigan's planters in the fall of 1920 procured thirty bushels of selected walnuts from Mt. Vernon, the George Washington homestead in Virginia, to be planted by school children on school grounds and at their homes and along the state highways. Something like 2,000 were planted by him in a nursery for subsequent use in the city parks of Saginaw.

The pessimist now gets up and says, "who gets the nuts?" What difference does it make? The owner of the tree will surely get a few and there is just a chance that the pessimist will get some of them and then go out and plant a tree himself. Plan to plant that nut tree now. Here is a proposition the whole town should be interested in. Why not a walnut grove or a walnut roadway?

SOME OFFICE BOYS

Life continues to beat fiction at its own game. Fifty years ago John G. Shedd started with Marshall Field as a clerk at $10 a week. Now he retires from the presidency of the great store. He is succeeded by James Simpson. Mr. Simpson began as an office boy. Somebody must take Mr. Simpson's place. So John McKinlay becomes vice president. Mr. McKinlay was another office boy. Apparently there is no keeping a good office boy down.

The only way the movies can compete with this sort of thing is by speeding it up. On the screen no office boy would have to wait more than three months before he was standing around waiting for the head of the concern to see that the only thing for him to do was to die or retire. And he would be a super-office boy, one who never made anything that looked in the least like a mistake. If Mr. Simpson or Mr. McKinlay had gone on for a week or two without making a mistake his immediate superior would have realized that he was not cut out for a practical career.—NEW YORK POST.

Fable: Once there was an elevator man who didn't have immediate business on another floor when he saw you approaching his cage.—BALTIMORE SUN.

SHOULD WE COUNT THE CALORIES?

It is of some practical value to know that so-called gluten bread is practically as nutritious as ordinary bread and that one can grow fat on it, or thin off it, as readily as with or without white bread. It is of practical value to know that buttermilk and skim milk are about equally nourishing, and that popcorn and wheat flour are equally fattening or equally nonfattening, according to the quantities eaten. It is of some value to know that an apple, an egg or a small potato will furnish the same amount of energy as 12 peanuts, six almonds or two tablespoonsful of sugar. By knowledge of the comparative nutritive values of common items of food one may more readily regulate the intake to meet the actual requirements of the system.

Especially valuable to persons who are overweight is a reasonable familiarity with the surprising fuel or food values of knick-knacks or tidbits which many of us have the habit of nibbling just as at parties, on dances or at delicacies which we indulge in socially. Thus, one large fig is equivalent to two plates of clam chowder; a bar of milk chocolate nourishes as much as one and one-third pints of milk; a very plain ice cream soda is the equivalent in nutritive value of an orange, a slice of bread and butter and a cup of coffee with cream and sugar.

Many of the fancy sundaes all doctored up with nuts, syrup, marshmallow and everything sweet are fully as sustaining and nourishing as an ordinary breakfast or regular victuals. No wonder some of us grow fat and the rest of us come home to dinner with little appetites. A calorie is the amount of heat required to raise the temperature of one gram of water one degree (centigrade), and the average adult requires 2,800 calories daily, enough heat to boil six pounds of ice. The nutritive value of various foods is measured by the amount of heat they will yield when digested and burned or oxidized in the body to supply energy or strength for muscular movements and for the working of the organs of the body. One gram (about 30 grains in an ounce) of sugar or starch yields 4 calories; one gram of protein (lean meat fibre or white of egg or cheese or the gluten in wheat) yields four calories; one gram of fat yields 9.4 calories. Therefore, sugar and sweets do not nourish or strengthen or fatten; they merely add to the bulk of the food without adding to the energy or strength of the body. One can digest and metabolize or burn up about seven times as much sugar as one can of meat in a day. It is not the food we digest and burn up that makes us fat or injures our health and endurance; it is the food we digest and fail to burn up. Some of us have an abnormal capacity for digesting starches and sugars and a very mean or poor capacity for burning them up. This is due to plain laziness in most cases, but to deficiency of ductless gland function, such as diabetes, in others.

Keep the calories within reasonable bounds, but don't try to count what you eat. It spoils eating.

LOOKING BACKWARD

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Thursday, January 13, 1898

Oscar Thilmann of Kaukauna was an Appleton visitor.

The Lockery Brothers disposed of their lively stable to George Roblee and A. W. Dallas.

W. F. Montgomery rented the corner store in the new A. W. Patton building at the corner of College and Morrison-st.

Harry T. Ferguson, city editor of Appleton Crescent, and Miss Florence Rogers were married at Grace Episcopal church at 5 o'clock the day previous. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Talbot Rogers, brother of the bride.

The public library received $65.55 from the two performances of Robin Hood.

A horse belonging to J. Hammel & Co. was killed in a runaway at the Northwestern depot by getting frightened at a switch engine and colliding with a box car.

A Washington dispatch said the Kaukauna water power case was before the United States Supreme court, the hearing and arguments having been begun the day previous. Arguments were made orally by W. F. Vilas, B. J. Stevens, A. L. Carey, Moses Hooper and George G. Greene.

TEN YEARS AGO

Thursday, January 9, 1913

That it would require from six to nine months to complete the consolidation of the Fox River and Wisconsin Telephone companies, properties was the opinion of officials of the latter company who were about to begin the work.

The annual ladies night dinner and entertainment of the Commercial club was to be held Jan. 15 at the Congregational church. Dr. Jerome Hall Raymond was to be the speaker.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Schmidt, son and daughter left for Milwaukee, where they were to be the guests of Mrs. Schmidt's sister, Mrs. A. G. Neumeister, for several days.

Joseph E. Schweitzer was at New London the previous evening, where he installed the new officers of St. Patrick court of the Catholic Order of Foresters.

The new addition to the Wisconsin Wire Works was under roof and it was expected it would be ready for occupancy within 30 days. It was constructed of steel and concrete and was 46 by 60 feet in size.

County Clerk William F. Wolf received notice from the city clerk at Kaukauna that Otto Kuchner had been elected supervisor of the First ward of Kaukauna to succeed Herman Pauli, resigned.

No Beauty Is Equal To Forest

(William Chalmers Covert, in The American Lumberman.)

Only a blind man fails to see the beauty that through all the seasons, night and day, lives in the woods. It is a beauty that cannot be described even by the poets who know beauty best.

The artist looks at the woods and then turns to lay on his canvas as much of the glory of shaft and bough and frond as it is possible for his brush to catch, but he knows better than anyone else that the real beauty of the woods has baffled his brush and defied his colors! One must live in the woods and become intimate with all their characteristics and know their secret meanings, before he talks about their beauty.

In the shade and shadow of great forest reaches, where few men walk and unbroken serenity lives, the soul of a man that sees will find that which thrills. Beauty, beauty everywhere! In the quiet, pillared corridors where myriads of trunks rise; through the vistas canopied by the sweeping boughs of pine and ancient birch, down the sides of rugged ravines where hemlock and spruce spread an ageless verdure, and across the shoulders of hills where hardwoods touch the landscape with deep tints of jade—everywhere, everywhere in the woods is beauty!

What a realm of glory! Gigantic trunks, with their gray bark overlying a ruddy brown, stand seamed and carved by age and weather. They suggest the monoliths and obelisks of an ancient people who wrote their bequests of beauty and wealth to other years in strange hieroglyphs. Every woodsman, whether he says it or not, is thankful for what his eyes see and his soul feels in the sanctuary of the woods.

Writers Were Hearty Eaters

Charles Roade's meals at the Garrick club were extraordinary. "A cauliflower flanked by a jug of cream, as first course, and a great salad to follow, washed down by curious drinks of the shandygaff order. He would drink coffee associated with sweets, black puddings and toasted cheese, to the wonder of any spectators." The world and an overcoat, it is said, could hardly contain the glory of Victor Hugo's vast frame. And the frontal development of the author of "Les Misérables" was wholly deserved, for his plate was a conglomeration of veal cutlets, lima beans and oil, roast beef and tomato sauce, omelets, milk and vinegar, mustard and cheese, which he swallowed rapidly and in immense quantities, washing down the whole with huge draughts of coffee. The author of "The Three Musketeers" was almost himself equal in bulk to three men. He has been described as a "hog's head." He had an amazing capacity for work despite his bulk, but it required a vast amount of fuel to keep the engine going, and he would eat three breakfasts where any other man of good appetite would eat one.—John O' London's Weekly.

Salute Is Not Servility Sign

(From The Half-Step.)

Until the recent war the military salute was one of the things in the army least appreciated by the civilian. In fact, many mistakenly regarded it as an act of servility—a forced mark of class recognition. Fortunately this sad misconception is rare today.

The salute between military persons is a mark of both respect and recognition. It is a mutual act. It may be considered the high sign of the military fraternity, and to realize this one must understand its purpose and origin.

In all armies that sign consists of raising the hand to the cap visor or hat brim, in some form or other. The significance of this lies in the origin of the salute, which takes us back to the days of chivalry.

When a medieval knight rode afield he always wore the visor of his helmet drawn down over his face, to be protected against any sudden encounter. So, when a knight met another whose coat-of-arms he recognized as that of one belonging to his own force, he raised the visor of his helmet to expose his countenance and show that he was in fact a friend and comrade and not one traveling under false colors. As this entailed a degree of risk, the obligation was first on him whose rank was junior. The modern salute has grown out of that custom.

Neighbors Plan Bill's Wedding

(From The London Daily Mail, Continental Edition.)

An interesting little comedy lies behind the former Kaiser's marriage. Apparently it was engineered by some of his acquaintances who, getting tired of listening to his garrulous confidences, conceived the idea of inducing him to marry again so that the new wife might serve as a buffer between them and the talkative exile.

The little plot originated among the Dutch noblemen who are the former Kaiser's neighbors and who were being continually invited to lunch and dine with him and be bored by his post-prandial utterances. It was difficult to refuse these invitations, so in sheer self-defense it was resolved to create a diversion.

One of these noblemen one day casually raised the subject of remarriage before the former Kaiser, who immediately appeared very interested in the idea although it apparently had never before occurred to him. From this moment the conspirators saw to it that the conversation always turned upon the same subject. Soon the former Kaiser became impressed by the notion and went about gathering suggestions from everyone as to whom he should select for a bride.

It is not known who suggested the final candidate though it is generally believed that, hearing what was afoot, she suggested herself. The princess is an extremely resolute woman. Indeed, this is her most marked characteristic. For some time previous to the marriage she had been writing political articles for the German newspapers sometimes under her own name, sometimes using a pseudonym.

Q. How is the hydrogen gas used in airships stored? F. T.

A. The Air Service says that the following three methods are used in storing hydrogen gas after generation: First, storage in a gas holder (fabric or metal) at a pressure of from 1 to 8 pounds greater than atmospheric pressure; second, storage in medium-pressure tanks at 200 to 600 pounds per square inch pressure; third, storage in portable cylinders at from 1,800 to 2,000 pounds per square inch pressure. The selection of the type of storage system is dependent on local conditions. Most British air stations have all three systems installed, but the medium-pressure system is not in favor.

Q. What are the Janissaries? F. L. A.

A. In 1350 the Turkish ruler Orkhan or Orkhan issued an edict compelling each city or town to contribute a quota of male children, usually about 7 years of age for the service of the Sultan. Requisitions were made about every four years, and from four to seven taken from each city or town. The children were given special training and the troops thus formed usually constituted the Sultan's body guard and were known as the Janissaries. They were also recruited from captive Christian children. The troops mutinyed in 1825 and the force was suppressed.

Q. Please state some of the superstitions connected with toads. M. R.

A. The toad is not an attractive animal and it has always been the object of curious beliefs or superstitions. Small boys believe that if one is killed and turned on its back there will be rain before night. For ages the general public has held to the belief that warts were produced by handling toads. Other traditions credit the toad with the power of poisoning infants with its breath; of bringing good fortune to the house in the new-made cellar of which one is fond; of curing children of stammering if rubbed on the back of the neck; and of causing a cow to dry or give bloody milk, if she accidentally kills a toad while being driven home from the pasture. The works of the early writers on natural history teem with vague unsubstantiated accounts of the venomous qualities of the breath and sputum of the toad; the medical value of toad skins for treating certain ailments, and the valuable toadstone or jewel to be found in its head.

Q. What is a tickler coil? F. A. N.

A. This is a coil placed in the plate circuit of a vacuum tube receiver to transfer part of the energy of the oscillating plate current back into the grid circuit in order to produce amplification and to enable the tube to generate oscillations of high frequency.

Q. How does the amount of coal handled by the railroads now compare with the amount handled before the railroad strike? T. P.

A. While in other years the railroads, in times of stress, have been able to handle 13,000,000 tons of bituminous coal in a week, it was pointed out at the operators' conference, they are now handling less than 10,000,000 tons weekly. The bituminous mines, it is stated, are in position at this time to load even more than 13,000,000 tons of coal a week.

Q. Do grape seeds cause appendicitis? H. C. R.

A. Medical authorities are now of the opinion that the seeds of the grape positively do not cause appendicitis.

Q. What do the initials "EVD" on men's underwear stand for? E. V. A.

A. The initials form a trade name which has been derived from the name of the manufacturer—Beverly, Vortic and Day.

Q. How many automobiles use the Continental motor? T. B. P.

A. At the present time there are 31 automobiles manufactured in this country using this make of engine.

Q. What town is sometimes referred to as the "Gibraltar of America"? L. O.

A. Quebec is so designated on account of its strategic position.

100 Sought For School Of Leaders

Classes In Community School Not To Start If Enrollment Is Not Large

Resumption of the community school for religious and social leaders for this year depends upon the number of persons registering for the courses, which begin at 7:15 Monday evening, Jan. 15, in main hall of Lawrence college. The executive committee with W. E. Smith as chairman has decided to abandon the school for this year if there are not 100 paid registrations. The teachers in charge must be assured of at least ten persons in each class, if the school is to be conducted.

Prof. W. J. Mutch, religious instructor at Ripon college, has been secured for the address during the first assembly period at 7:45 Monday evening.

In case the required number of persons fails to register classes will be conducted in each of the cooperating churches for this year. This plan would be only for the year unless it works out better for Appleton's needs than the community school. It is expected, however, that those desiring the training in social and religious leadership will respond, for it is an opportunity not found in many places.

HELP FOR GIRLS WHO WORK

Mrs. Lodic Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her

Tyrone, Pa.—"A friend told my husband how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had helped his wife, so my husband bought me a bottle because I was so run-down, had a nervous weakness, no strength in my body and pains in my left side so bad that I could hardly do my work. Before I was married I used to work in the factory, and I had pains just the same then as I have had since I have done my housework. I would not be without a bottle in the house now. It has stopped the pains all right and I have found out that it is a wonderful body builder, as it has made me well and strong. It is going to be the 'old reliable' with me hereafter, and I am always willing to tell other women how it has helped me. You can use this letter as you wish as I can honestly say that my words are true."—Mrs. M. Lodic, R.F.D. No. 4, Box 40, Tyrone, Pa.

Letters like this bring out the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. They tell of the relief from such pains and ailments after taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

FOR YOUNGSTERS

BY MARY BROOKS PICKEN

Knitted fabrics are finding a new and delightful use in frocks for juniors this season, supplanting to a certain degree the wash materials that are generally considered synonymous with children's garments.

Navy jersey fashions the little frock at the left, which might be termed as a glorified middie style, for its long waist portion attached with a wide tuck to the straight plaited skirt carries the suggestion of a separate blouse.

Much of the interest of this costume is bound to center in the vestee, collar, and cuffs of bright red jersey, the gay colored peasant embroidery on the vestee perhaps proving the most fascinating note of all.

Knitted silk, a firmly-woven tricotette, was the selection made for the bloomer dress. Although little different in design from bloomer dresses that have been popular for some time, this little model achieves marked distinction in its color, a soft, medium green contrasted with bindings and underarm lacings of navy blue braid.

WISCONSIN ONLY STATE WITHOUT BANK FAILURES

Williams Lauds Sate in Talk At Seymour Bank Meeting
—Reelect Officers

(Special to Post-Crescent)
Seymour—Wisconsin was the only state in the union which did not have a bank failure during the recent business crisis. Burt Williams told stockholders of the First National bank at the annual meeting in the auditorium here Tuesday afternoon. Mr. Williams is auditor and income inspector for Wisconsin banks and a former collector of internal revenue.

An address also was given by Samuel H. Cady, Wisconsin attorney for the Chicago and Northwestern Railway company and one of the organizers of the First National bank. Directors and officers were elected and the annual reports read showing a gain of $100,000 in resources during the past year.

BRUGGER PRESIDENT
Albert Brugger was reelected president of the bank by the directors. Others on the official staff as elected were: Jacob Freund, vice president; Charles Freund, cashier; Edmund Wieser, assistant cashier; Mose Bender, Robert Kuehne, J. D. Werbel, William Beck and William F. Pihl, directors.

Mr. Williams, in his talk, told the stockholders, and especially the farmers, what a wonderful state they live in. While banks were failing in other states during the business depression, Wisconsin, with its rich resources, was able to keep its doors open. Agriculture, manufacturing and recreation were given as some of the reasons for this.

Wisconsin, with her extensive dairying, is increasing the fertility of her soil, Mr. Williams said. This will mean increased prosperity as the farms develop in richness. Water power available for manufacturing also is helping to enrich the state, he said. The power resources are inexhaustible.

The speaker closed his talk by showing the changes in rates that have taken place between the years 1917 and 1921, using charts to illustrate. He also showed cost and earnings for railroads for the same period, declaring that expenses of railroads must be met from fares and freight.

NEW IRISH DETECTIVES REAL BUT DON'T LOOK IT

By Associated Press
Dublin—The criminal investigation department, established by the Irish government, has largely replaced the old detective department of the Dublin metropolitan police.

It has its headquarters in Ornel house, and its task is the rounding up of the ordinary criminals, bank robbers and burglars, who have taken advantage of the prevailing troubled times to prey on the citizens. The new force has the advantage, over the old, that its members have none of the traditional and easily recognizable appearance of the ordinary police detective in Dublin. They are mostly young men, very like the average young man in dress and build, and their operations are increasingly effective. They recently made 56 arrests in one week; have recovered much property, and have been congratulated on their efficiency by the Recorder of Dublin.

Syrup Pepsin Loved By Hosts of Babies

Half a teaspoonful will make a fretful youngster happy and playful

THE mother has her choice of many remedies for her baby's minor ills, but she should be careful which remedy she selects lest she do the child harm. What might be safe for herself may do injury to an infant. You will find that if the little one cries and doesn't want to play that its bowels are constipated. First look carefully to the diet and give the child one-half teaspoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. You will then see results in a few hours. You will not have to force it on babies or children; they actually ask for it, it is so pleasant-tasting and free from gripping.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a compound of Egyptian senna and pepsin with agreeable aromatics. The ingredients are stated on the package. It is a mild, gentle vegetable laxative that everyone finds effective and pleasant. It is better for you and yours than purgatives, coal-tar drugs, or salt waters and powders, which may concentrate the blood and dry up the skin; or mercurial calomel, which may salivate and loosen the teeth.

Use a safe laxative like Syrup Pepsin, and especially for the children, for invalids, growing girls, nursing mothers, elderly people, and persons recently operated upon who need bowel action with the least strain. Mrs. E. L. Brenington of Woodruff, S. C., always gives her children Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and Mrs. A. E. Blomd of Muskegon, Mich., will not have any other laxative in her home. Your druggist will supply you, and it only costs a cent a dose. Try it in constipation, colic, biliousness, flatulency, headache, and to break up fevers and colds.

TAKE DR. CALDWELL'S SYRUP PEPSIN

Thousands of parents are asking themselves, "Where can I find a trustworthy laxative that anyone in the family can use when constipated?" I urge you to try Syrup Pepsin. I will gladly provide a liberal free sample bottle, sufficient for an adequate test. Write me where to send it. Address: Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 515 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois. Do it now!

Autoist Must Pay More For Good Roads If State Program Is To Continue

Cannon Outlines Equitable Plan Of Assessment By Which State Can Obtain Millions In Federal Road Aid Money

BY F. A. CANNON
Executive Secretary, Good Roads Association of Wisconsin
ACCOMPLISHED IN 1922
Kind of Surface Total Miles
Concrete 353
Gravel 802
Macadam 31
Miscellaneous 136
Graded only 1,277
Surfaced only 614
Total mileage 3,235

The 1922 figures tell graphically the progress of highway improvement during the year just ended. In view of the present condition the average man is more interested in knowing the outlook for the future than in considering the work done in the past. We are confronted with the fact that the last legislature failed to make the usual appropriation for highway improvement, making no provision for meeting the federal aid. The next legislature must make provision for doing this or the federal aid will be lost to Wisconsin and a chaotic condition will result in the highway movement.

WHERE GET FUNDS?
The question at issue is how funds are to be made available to continue our highway program. There is no intention of increasing the program. The idea that Wisconsin is pushing highway work with greater speed than she should is unjustified. We are lagging behind our neighboring states in the matter of meeting federal aid. Wisconsin sixth state from the bottom of the list—meaning by this, 42 states have matched the federal aid funds with state funds sooner than Wisconsin. The program in this state has been a moderate one. Instead of pushing intensive construction of high types of road it has been one of developing adequate transportation facilities throughout the state as quickly as possible through patrol maintenance and minor construction in many places where it would have been a hardship to provide funds for a higher type construction.

There are three sources from which funds for highway improvement can be secured—general property taxes, income taxes, or heavier imposts on the motor vehicle. At the outset we may eliminate the general property tax. It has reached the peak point and it is obvious the legislature would not pass a state general property tax to meet the federal aid. The income tax may be dismissed as it is evident to those familiar with conditions that any readjustments made in income tax rates will be wholly absorbed in other directions.

FALLS ON MOTORIST
The only course left is the motor vehicle, and the problem amounts to this: Either we are going to very sharply curtail our road program and tend to drop back into the mud again, or the motor vehicle must furnish a larger share of the funds. This is the issue which confronts the people who use the roads.

The legislative committee of the Wisconsin County Boards association, after an exhaustive investigation, recommended a heavier impost on motor vehicles to continue the road program. Their investigation showed that the cost of rural improvements in Wisconsin this year will total $37,000,000, and of this the motor vehicle pays $4,000,000. On its face this would not appear to be a fair share, and it is obvious that general property is bearing too large a part of the burden. It is the motor vehicle that creates the demand for the roads and for the modern road building improvement, and it gets the advantage of good roads and it should bear in a measurable degree the cost of road improvement.

GAS TAX PROPOSED

With this in mind, the legislative committee recommended a 2-cent-a-gallon tax on gasoline, a graduated license of 50 cents a hundred weight on automobiles which would fix the fee on a Ford car at $7 and grade it upward, and a 2 per cent valuation tax on the value of cars, to be paid to the state and to take the place of the present personal property tax which goes to the local units. In addition they recommended a fee of $1 a hundred weight of vehicle and load on heavy motor trucks and busses.

The plan proposed would yield $10,000,000 and thus the motor vehicle would pay one-third of the bill instead of one-ninth. This plan was submitted to the county boards throughout the state at their annual meetings in November, and 85 per cent of them voted in favor of the financial features suggested. The vote was overwhelming. It will be obvious to any one studying the above that the assertion that the whole cost of road building is to be loaded on the motor vehicle is totally without foundation, for only one-third of the cost will be paid by the motor vehicle and the balance will come practically all from the general property tax.

WON'T BRING LESS

So far as the change in the license is concerned, it does not cut much figure. The owner of a small car will pay less and the larger and heavier car more. The total yield will be the same. The 2 per cent valuation tax is not a new tax but the shifting of a tax now paid to the local units to the state. The average personal property rate is more than 2 per cent. Under this plan a large number of cars, between 40,000 and 50,000, escaping the personal property tax would pay the valuation tax. So far as the gasoline tax is concerned, it is a new impost. Eighteen states have adopted this tax. At a recent meeting at San Francisco, the governors of eleven states agreed to urge it upon their legislatures. Bills providing for it will be introduced into the legislatures of Indiana, Illinois, Mich-

COUNTY WON'T BUY CEMENT OF STATE

Purchase Of Tractor To Operate
Huge Snow Plow Is Authorized

Outagamie-co will not purchase its 1923 supply of cement for highway construction and maintenance through the state highway commission, according to action taken by the county-state road and bridge committee at its meeting Monday, at which all members were present.

It was decided that the contractors who are to have the road construction contracts next year furnish the cement themselves. This county and Dodge-co were the two counties that decided not to order cement in conjunction with the other counties of the state.

The purchase of a 10-ton Holt "caterpillar" tractor with an enclosed cab and equipped with a V-type locomotive snowplow was authorized by the committee. The cost of the tractor will be $6,390. The plow will be 60 inches high and 10 feet wide. It is believed that the county snowplowing service will be decidedly improved by this means.

A. G. Brusewitz, county highway commissioner, and at least three members of the committee will at the request of the committee attend the sessions of the road school to be held in Madison from Jan. 22 to 26.

izan and Minnesota. The use of gasoline denotes heavier than anything else the use of the road.

No one can tell what the next legislature will do. No one seems to believe that they will refuse to meet the federal aid, which would mean that $2,200,000 must be raised yearly by some means. It is almost certain that the legislature will recommend the continuance of the present patrol maintenance which needs approximately $6,000,000. This, as will be seen, will absorb a very large part of the $10,000,000 which the legislative committee proposed should be raised for state road purposes.

'Y' COUNCIL PLANS SERIES OF GAMES

Eight Clubs Will Compete In Two Divisions For Awards

Discussion of a program of games took up most of the time at the monthly meeting of the boys' division council at the Y. M. C. A. Tuesday evening with Mayor Harold Finger presiding.

The eight clubs are represented in two divisions, senior and junior. A series of games is to be played in each division. The winning club will receive appropriate recognition on a shield to be placed on the walls of the department.

Five points will be awarded a club for taking first place in any event, three points for second and one for third. If the club's contest fails to show up at the time scheduled for an event, the club will be penalized by losing its right to appear in that contest.

Committees appointed to take charge of the various games in the grand contest are:

Checkers, Parton, chairman. Cohen, Sharp, passio chess, Packard, chairman. Johnson; cue roquet, Moore, chairman. Christian; pool and carrom, Berge, chairman. Murphy, Williams; billiards, Sell, chairman. Bobasack; ping-pong, Harriman, chairman. Knok; debate, Parton, chairman. Harriman, Williams; athletics, Murphy, chairman, Berge, Moore.

PICTURES SHOW ACTORS IN SHAKESPEAREAN ROLES

Modern "Hamlets" of the stage form an interesting Shakespearean exhibit in the English recitation room of Miss Hester Harper at the high school. Pictures of the famous actors in noted roles have been brought to class by those who are studying Shakespeare and these have been placed upon the bulletin board.

The pictures are especially valuable because they make the class visu-

ASK TWIN CITIES KEPT ON HIGHWAY

The board of supervisors of Winnebago-co has gone on record as opposed to the Wisconsin highway commission proposal for rerouting highway 15 so it will not pass through Neenah and Menasha, and will be placed west of Fox river between Appleton and Oshkosh.

Action was taken through a resolution introduced by E. T. Jourdain of Neenah, declaring that Neenah and Menasha desired the route continued over the present course.

Legless Man Survived Death Pact; May Hang

Special To Post-Crescent

London—A legless man, 22 years old, will soon be carried to the gallows to pay the penalty for a "constructive murder."

It took the jury only 15 minutes to find him guilty. Yet he never could have been convicted for such a crime in the United States.

If two persons enter a death pact, and one survives, can he be charged with murder?

The British law says yes. Popular opinion, backed by some leading baristers, says no.

In the balance hangs the life of the cripple. Unless sufficient sentiment is aroused to win a commutation of sentence, he will soon be carried to the scaffold in the arms of a policeman for his part in an unfortunate love affair.

Although Lionel Edward Symonds, a baker at Hershams, was married and had two children, he fell in love with Gladys Martha Wall, the 15-year-old daughter of his employer. Fearing the inevitable consequences, they decided to end it all by throwing themselves in front of a train.

But the girl became frightened. Shortly before the time set for the execution of their death pact, she wrote:

"I shall not go to the train lines because I don't wish to die like that. I would rather you kill me."

The man replied:

"Dear, it must be that rain. I could not do it myself. Then we go together."

The day after the girl's mutilated body was found on the railway track and nearby was Symonds with both legs so badly crushed his feet had to be amputated.

On the stand, the cripple admitted his love for the girl and their talk and notes about jumping in front of the train. But he said he changed his mind and wanted to live.

He met her, told her, urged her not to be silly. But she was distracted and ran towards the track down which the train was thundering. Half-mad with fright, he ran after her.

That was all that he remembered.

MASTER BUILDERS STUDY PLANS TO GET APPRENTICES

Union Labor Is Blamed For Difficulty In Training Building Tradesmen

A discussion on apprentices to the building crafts which followed the address on that subject by Walter P. Simon of Madison, supervisor of apprenticeship of the industrial commission of the Wisconsin convention of the Master Builders in Eagle had led to the appointment of a committee to consider what the association can do toward bringing more apprentices into the craft. More than 30 men took part in the informal discussion which lasted for more than an hour and a half.

The committee was picked by Richard C. Frazee of Milwaukee, president of the building association, to include a representative of as many crafts as were present at the convention. The committee consists of Martin Boldt, Appleton, representing the carpenters; L. W. Burch, Madison, electricians; Edward Herman, Manitowish, masons; L. M. Mendell, Watertown, plumbers; F. Zoubek, Keneshaw, plasterers; Joseph Golubek, Green Bay, painters; William J. Tuben, Milwaukee, cement contractors; William Ford, Janesville, general contractors. This committee was given instructions to consider the problem from all angles which were brought out and report back on a program which the association can take up at once. The legislative program of the Milwaukee Manufacturers' association was read at the convention during the discussion and the committee was urged to consider carefully this program and to give it the endorsement of the organization in session here if possible.

TURNOVER IN SIX YEARS
Mr. Simon brought out in his talk on apprenticeship that the labor turnover in the building trades was 35 per cent during the past year due to death and retirement. He said that this means if the percentage remains constant that within six years a new crop of craftsmen must be ready to take up the building work of the country. He showed that contractors do not like to take on apprentices and that no one can compel them to do it, but that the trades cannot go along without new men entering the field.

He showed that more attention has been paid to apprentices in the metal trades and that there are plenty of boys who want to learn those trades. The speaker explained the apprentice law in Wisconsin which has to do with the four-year indenture contract of boys from the ages of 16 to 21. He said that there would have to be some sort of standardization of apprentice status before anything could be accomplished. He urged that the master builders do all in their power to bring about conditions which would encourage boys to learn to be building crafts men.

NEED MORE TRADESMEN

The discussion which followed was long and earnest. The men who spoke all recognized the need of more men in their trades. Some discussed the fact that children have to go to school until they are 18 years of age and that more emphasis is placed on the so-called white collar jobs by the teachers who have charge of the children than on the good honest jobs of their fathers. The builders were urged to raise the opinion of the community in regard to the trades.

It was suggested that the way to bring more men into the trades was to establish regular trade schools like the bricklayers school in St. Paul. Several speakers said that if a school was the thing they needed that it was high time that these schools be established. The matter of the support of the schools was discussed and it was suggested that considerable help could be obtained from the state for this sort of proposition.

LABOR RULE IS OBSTACLE

A point which was discussed for more than a half hour was the ruling of the labor unions against taking apprentices over the ages of 21 and the law which dealt only with apprentices who were minors. In the discussion the labor ruling was mistaken for the law and it was sometime before all of the men realized that the labor union ruling not the law prevents taking men to learn the trade who are more than 21 years old.

Open shop men told of the many men whom they had trained in the trades who were older than the union would allow. They said a man does not learn his trade as well when he had a family and needed the money badly. The union men told of their handicap because of the strong unions in several towns. One man stated that even when apprentices were under the state age that union bosses in do it almost impossible for an apprentice to get ahead without great difficulty.

The problem of the influence of the high school and vocational school on men who wanted to learn trades was discussed from the angle of the experienced contractor. Some said that they could not do anything with boys that had come from the schools that they found high school students will not put on overalls and get to work while others said that they had found some very willing workers among the high school boys who had tried to make a go of something else.

HERB MILL READY IN RECORD TIME

Former Appleton Men Plan To Enlarge New Mill In Western Canada

British Columbia's newest industry is the paper manufacturing plant of Westminster Paper Mills, Ltd., located at New Westminster, in which J. J. Herb and M. F. Herb, formerly of Appleton are president and vice president, respectively.

Ground was broken for the erection of the mill on July 8, and to have the mill in actual operation within a little over five months represents a record in actual time of construction of a paper mill.

The plant is the first of its kind to be built west of Toronto and is the first plant of a similar type in Canada. The mill is equipped for making toilet paper, tissues, towels, napkins, suit wrappers and plain and colored wrapping paper of all kinds. The company has a payroll of about $7,000 and has arranged its plant so as to double its capacity and plans within the next few months to install machinery for making paper bags.

The office carries with it also the duties of supervisor of assessors in the particular counties of the district. The salary connected with the local office is $1,800, that for the office in Burnett co., $1,500, while the salary in District 28 is $1,600.

APPLY AT MADISON
Applicants may secure application blanks from the office of the state civil service commission at Madison. The blanks must be filled out and reach that office not later than Jan. 24. Preference, it is said, will be given to the qualifying candidates residing within the district in which the desired office is located.

The preferred age is between 25 and 45 years. Candidates should have some experience in appraising property and in the handling of public records.

STATE IS PLACING BIG CEMENT ORDER

Outagamie And Dodge Counties Only Ones Not Buying Through Department

Bids of $1.60 a barrel on 1,500,000 barrels of cement for the state's 1923 road program and for all county programs except Outagamie and Dodge, will be accepted in a few days by the state highway commission, State Highway Engineer A. R. Hirst has announced.

Of the $2,400,000 worth of cement, $960,000 or 600,000 barrels will be used by the state. The remainder is for counties authorizing the highway commission to do their buying.

Outagamie and Dodge co., which have not authorized the highway commission to purchase for them, have programs projected which will use about 300,000 barrels of cement. Outagamie co. will have contractors include cement in construction proposals.

The price of $1.60 f. o. b. the cement mills at Burlington, Ind., or LaSalle, Ill., is 11 cents higher than the average price paid last year. The state building program for 1923 is for about 350 miles of new cement highways.

SEEK MONEY IN STATE FOR HOTEL SCHOOL MOVE

Building Brisk But Profits Were Small In 1922 Speaker Says

President Ferge Opens Master Builders' Convention With Address Describing Year's Conditions

"It is safe to say that very small profits have been made by most contractors while all records for volume of building have been broken during the past year," said Richard C. Ferge of Milwaukee, president of the Master Builders' association, in his presidential address at the opening session of the eleventh annual convention of that organization in Eagle hall on Wednesday afternoon. "It seems that the average contractor will not exert any effort to learn new truths and that in general he prefers guesses to facts. By omitting items from his estimate, by under-estimating his cost and by not considering his overhead, he bids too low, gets the job and does it at a loss. The contractor who gets in all his items, knows his costs and figures his overhead cannot get work."

The meeting opened with more than 300 contractors from all the building trades in attendance and more were coming in all during the session. Two meetings took place in the afternoon before the speakers program, the one of the Master Builders' association and the other of the Builders Mutual Casualty Company of Wisconsin. At the latter meeting an announcement was made of a 10 per cent dividend declared by the board of directors at its session on Wednesday morning.

COMPANY IS GROWING
The report of H. L. Geisler of Madison, secretary manager of the insurance company, showed that its assets on Dec. 31, 1922, were $222,442.16 and that its surplus on the same date was $122,343.70. The increase of assets over 1921 was $62,464.92 and the increase in surplus was $34,625.43. The company writes workmen's compensation, public liability, auto liability and personal accident insurance for members of the Master Builders' association only and is considered as a branch of the Master Builders' association.

L. A. Leonhardt of Appleton, M. C. Metz of Oshkosh and W. W. Bartlett of Eau Claire, directors of the insurance company whose terms expired this year were reelected to the board of directors. Committees of the Master Builders' association were appointed. The nomination committee includes J. W. Jungbluth, Milwaukee, Fred Hansen, Madison, N. R. Grasse, Sheboygan, Sidney Moody, Kenosha; Joseph Raine, Watertown and the resolution committee includes E. H. Luening, La Crosse, E. E. Van Pool, Janesville, H. Hoffmeister, Antigo, Otto Henkelmann, Green Bay and Anton Nielsen, Neenah.

FEW STRIKES IN 1922
In his presidential address, Mr. Ferge outlined the program of the convention and told of some conditions which had influenced building conditions. Concerning strikes, he said: "During the year there have been few strikes reported in the building crafts throughout the state. This is due undoubtedly to the open-shop working conditions which now prevail in most cities of this state. Nevertheless, both the coal and the railroad strikes have had a noticeable effect on our business. Whatever interferes with the normal course of business restricts production, reduces employment and raises prices in other lines of industry. A strike is very seldom so successful that it pays its own way. Even if workers made a clear gain by stopping work it would be at the expense of fellow workers who are a large part of the consuming public, which eventually foots the bill."

Dr. D. O. Kinsman of Lawrence college and Walter P. Simon of Madison were the two speakers of the afternoon. The report of Mr. Simon's speech and the ensuing discussion appears in another column of this paper. Dr. Kinsman discussed "The Problem of Prices." He showed that the measures of length, liquid quantity and the like were standard while the measure of price could not be standardized under the present system.

CHANGES CONSTANTLY
"The price measure is one thing today and another thing tomorrow," said the speaker. "If the price measure could be made uniform and constant, it would save you a lot of embarrassment and possibly your fortune. There are certain influences which effect the price measure which are ever changing. In the time of high prices we must be careful to determine whether the increased cost is due to an increased want or to the fact that there is more money to use and people are handing it around more freely."

Dr. Kinsman told the men that while competition is keen it is often a matter of self defense for contractors to get together to fix a price. He said that it was probable that after the price has been set as fair at $1, that the group would realize that it could get $1.10 just as well. He showed that while the one was justifiable from the standpoint of self preservation, the other was not justifiable and was an act of aggression.

We must recognize the importance of the nature of the demand," said the speaker. "When a good honest supply is given for a legitimate demand, we are going to steady the market. When the price is justified by the quantity and quality of the product conditions will become more normal."

LONSDORF AUTHOR OF TAX LAW BOOK

District Attorney Has Written Digest And Explanation Of Income Tax

John A. Lonsdorf, district attorney and former assessor of incomes, received a letter this week from West Publishing company of St. Paul urging him to purchase a book written by himself.

The letter the author received is a circular that is being sent to all attorneys of the state calling their attention to Mr. Lonsdorf's book, "Wisconsin Income Tax Law," on the pages of which the ink is hardly dry. This book was prepared for both the lawyer and the layman as an aid to the preparation of income tax returns. Legislators in other states also will undoubtedly find it helpful in the study of the Wisconsin income tax law.

It contains a complete analysis of the income tax law with detailed explanations of every section of the statute. In addition all the decisions of the state supreme court and all rulings of the state tax commission are discussed and applied. The various forms for merchants, farmers, laborers, professional men, partnerships, trustees, executors and corporations are illustrated and explained.

The book is divided into two parts and is supplied with a complete index and tables of cases cited and statutes construed. Constitutional provisions, income in general, definitions, exemptions, rates of taxation, administration and model return forms are some of the chapter headings. The book is bound in buckram and contains about 200 pages.

CAPTAIN BLOOD

by Rafael Sabatini
© RAFAEL SABATINI
ADAPT. NEA SERVICE

"Lash him across the mouth of it," he bade them and whilst, assisted by another two, they made haste to obey, he turned to the others. "To the roundhouse, some of you, and fetch the Spanish prisoners. And you, Drake, go up and bid them set the flag of Spain aloft."

Don Diego, with his body stretched in an arc across the cannon's mouth, the legs and arms lashed to the carriage on either side of it, eyeballs rolling in his head, glared maniacally at Captain Blood.

"From frothing lips he hurled blasphemies and insults at his tormentor."

Captain Blood vouchsafed him a malignant smile, before he turned to meet the fifteen muffled Spanish prisoners, who were thrust into his presence.

Approaching, they had heard Don Diego's voice. From amongst them a comely, olive-skinned stripling, distinguished in bearing and apparel from his companions, started forward with an anguished cry of "Father!"

Considering him, Captain Blood thought with satisfaction that he displayed the proper degree of filial piety.

"Peace," he snapped at him. "Peace, and listen! It is no part of my intention to blow your father to hell as he deserves, or indeed to take his life at all."

"It is your father's treachery that has brought us into this plight and deliberately into risk of capture and death aboard that ship of Spain. Just as your father recognized his brother's flagship, so will his brother have recognized the Cinco Ligas. Presently the Encarnacion will be sufficiently close to perceive that here all is not as it should be. Now, we are in no case to fight, as your father knew when he ran us into this trap. But fight we will, if we are driven to it. We make no tame surrender to the ferocity of Spain."

He laid his hand on the breech of the gun that bore Don Diego.

"Understand this clearly: to the first shot from the Encarnacion this gun will fire the answer."

"A fight would be averted if Don Diego de Espinosa were to go aboard his brother's ship, and inform the Admiral that all is well with the Cinco Ligas. But of course Don Diego cannot go in person, because he is . . . otherwise engaged. He has a slight touch of fever—shall we say—that detains him in his cabin. But you, his son, may convey all this and some other matters together with his homage to your uncle. You shall go in a boat manned by six of these Spanish prisoners, and I—a distinguished Spaniard delivered from captivity in Barbados by your recent raid—will accompany you to keep you in countenance. If I return alive, and without accident of any kind to hinder our free sailing hence, Don Diego shall have his life, as shall every one of you."

Don Estaban moistened his parched lips, and with the back of his hand mopped the anguish-sweat from his brow. His eyes gazed wildly a moment upon the shoulders of his father, as if beseeching censure. Something like a sob escaped the boy.

"I . . . I accept," he answered at last, and swung to the Spaniards. "And you—will accept too?" he insisted passionately. They answered without much hesitation that they would do as was required of them.

CHAPTER XVII
Don Pedro Sanfere

The Cinco Ligas and the Encarnacion, after a proper exchange of signals, lay hove to within a quarter of a mile of each other, and across the intervening space of gently heaving, sunlit waters sped a boat from the former, manned by six Spanish seamen and bearing in her stern sheets Don Estaban de Espinosa and Captain Peter Blood.

She also bore two treasure-chests containing fifty thousand pieces of eight.

Don Miguel opened his arms to his nephew and having enfolded him in his bosom turned to greet Don Estaban's companion.

Peter Blood bowed gracefully, entirely at his ease, so far as might be judged from appearances.

"I am," he announced, making a literal translation of his name, "Don Pedro Sangre, an unfortunate gentleman of Leon, lately delivered from captivity by Don Estaban's most gallant father."

"But where is my brother? Why has he not come himself, to greet me?"

It was young Espinosa who promptly answered this.

"My father is afflicted at denying 'Nay, nephew, nay,' Don Miguel protested with ironic repudiation. "I himself that honor and pleasure. But unfortunately, sir uncle, he is a little indisposed. It is a little fever, the result of a slight wound taken in the recent raid upon Barbados, which resulted in this gentleman's happy deliverance."

can have no knowledge of these things. Already you have told me more than it is good for me to know." But he winked into the twinkling eyes of Captain Blood; then added matter that at once extinguished that twinkle. "But since Diego cannot come to me, why, I will go across to him."

For a moment Don Estaban's face was a mask of pallid fear. Then Blood was speaking in a lowered confidential voice that admirably blended suavity, impressiveness, and sly mockery.

"If you please, Don Miguel, but that is the very thing you must not do—the very thing Don Diego does wish you to do. It was his consideration of himself and the false position in which you would be placed if you had direct word from him of what has happened. He paused a moment. Your excellency understands."

His excellency frowned thoughtfully. "I understand . . . in part," said he.

Captain Blood swept on to afford further confirmation before the Admiral could say another word.

"And we have in the boat below two chests containing fifty thousand pieces of eight, which we are to deliver to your excellency."

His excellency jumped; there was a sudden stir among his officers.

"They are the ransom extracted by Don Diego from the Governor of . . ."

"Not another word, in the name of Heaven!" cried the Admiral in alarm. "My brother wishes me to assume charge of this money, to carry it to Spain for him? Well, that is family matter between my brother and myself. But I must not know."

"He broke off 'Rum!' A class of Malaga in my cabin, if you please," he invited them, "whilst the chests are being hoisted aboard."

They laughed, and drank the damnation of King James—quite unofficially, but the more fervently on that account. Then Don Estaban uneasy on the score of his father, rose and announced that they must be returning.

As they stepped into the waist of the Cinco Ligas, Hagthorpe advanced to receive them. Blood observed the set, almost scared expression of his face.

"I see that you've found it," he said quietly.

Hagthorpe's eyes looked a question. But his mind dismissed what ever thought it held.

"Don Diego . . ." he was beginning, and then stopped, and looked curiously at Blood.

Noting the pause and the look, Estaban bounded forward, his face livid.

"Have you broken faith, you curse?" Has he come to harm?" he cried—and the six Spaniards behind him made chorus to his furious questioning.

"We do not break faith," said Hagthorpe firmly, so firmly that he quieted them. "And in this case there was not the need. Don Diego died in his bonds before ever you reached the Encarnacion."

Peter Blood said nothing.

"Dead?" screamed Estaban. "You killed him, you mean. Of what did he die?"

Hagthorpe looked at the boy. "If I am a judge," he said, "Don Diego died of fear."

Don Estaban struck Hagthorpe across the face at that, and Hagthorpe would have struck back, but that Blood got between, whilst his followers seized the lad.

"I was not concerned to insult," said Hagthorpe, nursing his cheek. "It is what happened. Come and look."

"I have seen," said Blood. "He died before I left the Cinco Ligas. He was hanging dead in his bonds when I spoke to him before leaving."

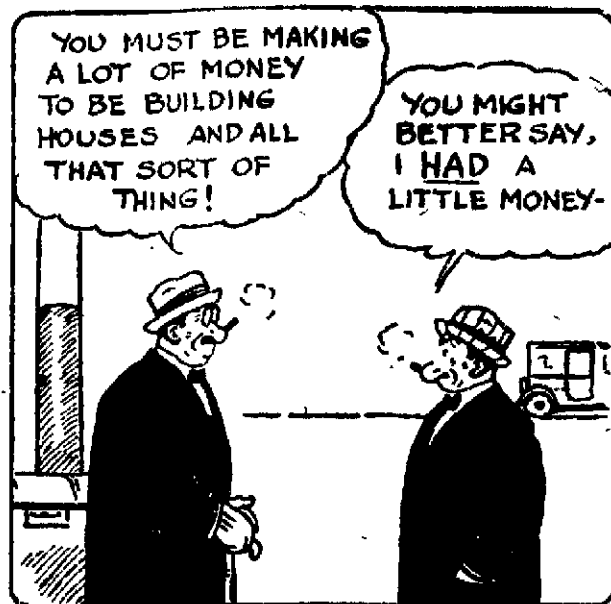

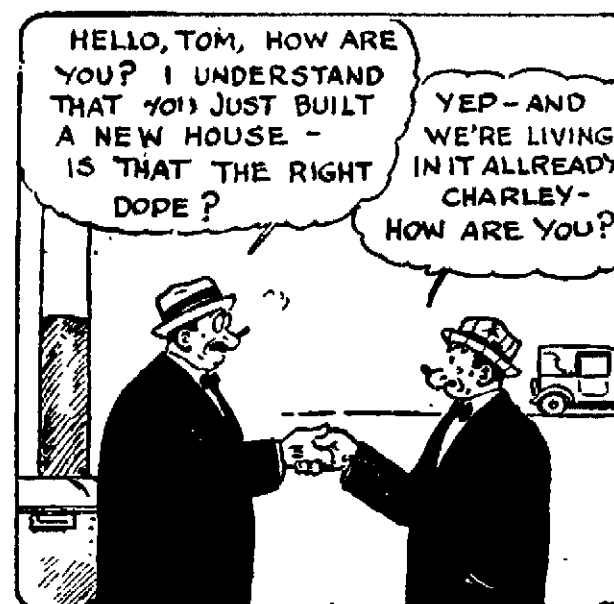

Blood's council decided that, going east of Hispaniola, and then sailing along its northern coast, they should make for Tortuga, that haven of the buccanniers, in which lawless port they had at least no fear or recapture to apprehend.

It was now a question whether they should convey the Spaniards thither with them, or turn them off in a boat to make the best of their way to the coast of Hispaniola, which was but ten miles off. This was the course urged by Blood himself.

"There's nothing else to be done," he insisted. "In Tortuga they would be flayed alive."

Gloria's New Play Is Only Dress Vehicle

BY JAMES W. DEAN
New York—"My American Wife" presents Gloria Swanson again as a clothes mannequin. As a photoplay it is fodder for the morons. A fair estimate of the play lies in one of its subtitles, "This is utterly ridiculous."
Gloria is by no means a style mannequin. The things she wears were never in style and never will be. They are such garments and baubles as might be worn by followers of racing camps and so a racetrack story is told to give her the license to wear the clothes.
Ideas for her fashions are borrowed from many sources. One gown seems to have employed the crystal chandelier motif, being weighted with many pounds of glass.
A jacket seems to have been cut from a leather pillow with fancy fringe. At another time Gloria swags across the screen with a veil that drapes on the floor. One dress hobbles her like a two-gated horse is hobbled to make it pace.
She wears a bowler, riding habit and boots and carries a crop, but rides in an auto. One hat with a long beak makes her look like a spoonbill catfish, while another with a propeller blade on each side makes you wonder when she'll hop off.

Gloria Swanson's enthusiasm of youth is gone. Being a star seems to bore her a lot. There seems to be a note of condescension in her attitude toward the camera. From "Something to Think About" to "My American Wife" is a far cry. Once Gloria Swanson was the most accomplished actress of the screen. It was her ability to act that made her a star. Now she is flat, colorless. Her clothes seem to be too much for her frail strength.

Antonio Moreno is Gloria's leading man in "My American Wife." More is of the same type as Valentino. His personal elegance has been hidden under a bushel as it were, for he has appeared in many mediocre films and has had little exploitation. Perhaps the Paramount people are grooming him to supplant Valentino who has quit that company. Moreno in appearance at least, is better qualified to take Valentino's place than Charles De Roche, the newcomer from France.

A print of "Nanook of the North" has been presented to the New York Museum of Natural History.

A juvenile version of "Hamlet" is to be screened with little Buddy Martin in the title role.

Maurice M'Quinn will be Alice Brady's leading man in "The Snow Bride."

Rex Ingram still wears his old army overcoat.

Betty Blythe is now working in "The Garden of Desire." Hope she has no weeds to pull.

Adventures Of The Twins

Twins Hunt Stolen Car
Nancy and Nick appeared at once at the Fairy Queen's palace when they heard she wished them to hunt for her lost automobile.

"My dear children," said she, kindly. "You found my lost wand so quickly that I am sure you will discover my automobile just as soon."

"I do need it so!" Not that my wings won't take me anywhere—it isn't that at all. It's just that, even if I am a fairy, I like to ride as well as anybody."

"Do you know who took it?" asked Nick.

"Sh!" whispered Her Royal Highness, looking cautiously around. "I'm afraid somebody will hear."

"Yes I know, but it's a secret. It was Light Fingers. He steals everything he gets his hands on. He's far worse than Flap Doodle."

"Of course, poor thing," sighed the fairy Queen, "I suppose he can't help it. He has long, thin fingers and he says they take things with out his knowing it."

"The trouble is," she went on, "I don't think that Light Fingers stole my automobile for himself. He's so smart the other wicked fairies get him to do things for them."

"Twelve Toes, the Sorcerer; Eena Meena, the Magician; and Tricky Tricky, the Wizard, all employ him. I don't know who has my automobile now."

"Well, don't you worry," said Nancy promptly. "We'll start at once if you give us the Magical Green Shoes again."

"That's nice, dear, thank you," smiled the Queen, calling to some of her courtiers to bring the little shoes that had taken the Twins on so many adventures.

The children slipped them on and wished themselves on a new adventure.

CONFERENCE STUDIES WOMEN IN INDUSTRIES

Women's wages and why they are so low.
Women's hours of labor and why they are so long.
The industries that employ women "home workers" and what they mean to women.
Women wage earners and their dependents.
Women's contributions to their families' support.
Factory conditions of women workers and the workers' health.
These are among the topics which will be considered at the National Conference of Women to be held in Washington Jan. 11 and 12.

When facts have been stated and causes analyzed, remedies for existing evils will be sought.

The conference was called by the Women's Bureau of the United States Department of Labor. Its purpose is to bring to light certain industrial conditions, which, says the bureau's director, Miss Mary Anderson, must be faced.

BUREAU NAMES STANDARDS
"The Women's Bureau," says Miss Anderson, "recommends certain definite standards for women's employment, looking to the welfare of the women workers and the national good, both of which aims involve women's industrial equality with men."

"We want this conference to consider earnestly the question 'What is industrial equality?'" Secretary of Labor Davis will open the conference officially in the auditorium of the new National Museum. Present there will be representatives of the organized employers and of the organized women workers, men, and especially women in public office, club women, women members of fraternal orders, business women, professional women, women of every political creed and of all kinds of affiliations.

ON THE PROGRAM
Prominent on the program will be Miss Anderson her assistant, Miss Agnes L. Peterson, Miss Mary Gilson, employment manager for the Joseph & Potts Company of Cleveland, Miss Mary Van Kleeck, director of the department of industrial studies of the Russell Sage Foundation, Mrs. Raymond Robins, president of the International Federation of Working Women, Mrs. Florence Kelley, general secretary of the National Consumers' League, Mrs. Maud Swartz, president of the National Women's Trade Union League, Miss Melinda Scott of the United Textile Workers of America, Miss Mercia B. Hoagland, employment manager of the Diamond Chain Company of Indianapolis, Miss Agnes Nestor, vice president of the National Glove Workers' Union of America, Miss Mary McDowell of the Chicago University Settlement, and Miss Julia Lathrop, former chief of the Children's Bureau of the Department of Labor.

business women—preferably two to a tea room—a conductor and an engineer.

"The conductor receives the guests and keeps things smooth and pleasant. But the engineer, out in the kitchen, is the mainspring of the enterprise. 'Atmosphere' is all very well, but customers tire of it as a substitute for food."

Miss Wood's school teaches the choosing of a location for the tea room, the laying out of the establishment, furnishing, decoration and the buying, preparation and storing of food. Then it helps to start its graduates in business and acts as their counselor for a few weeks. It has alumni in business throughout the country, from Maine to California, and will have representatives this year in England, France, Holland, Switzerland, South America and China.

Miss Woods formerly was employment manager for six of New York's largest hotels.

Women Given New Field By Volstead Law

BY MARIAN HALE
Women have prohibition to thank for opening to them the biggest business field yet discovered—
The tea room, in all its variations.
So says Helen M. Woods, head of the first school ever established to teach tea room management exclusively.
The tea room's popularity, Miss Woods holds, is just in its infancy. She is confident there is a great future before it.
"Before prohibition," she points out, "a woman couldn't hope to compete with big hotels and roadhouses where drinks were sold, and a self-respecting woman couldn't serve in a place where they were a bar."

TESTED RECIPES

BESSIE'S GINGERBREAD

We think no gingerbread is quite as good as Bessie's. When she serves a square three inches thick, with a large spoonful of cream, heat until it is very stiff, everyone at the table says "Oh, my favorite dessert!"

1/2 cup shortening (lard or lard and butter or bacon fat)
2 small eggs
1 cup sugar
1 cup molasses
2 1/2 cups flour
1 teaspoon soda
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon ginger
1/2 teaspoon cloves
1/2 teaspoon allspice
1 cup raisins
Cream together shortening, sugar and eggs. Mix together flour, soda and spices. Add molasses to sugar and egg mixture. Stir in the flour and add raisins. Bake in a moderate oven 30 to 35 minutes.

MERINGUE LEMON TARTS

For 10 individual patties or muffins, a paste made with 1 1/2 cups of flour, 1/2 teaspoon salt and 1/2 cup of shortening will be needed.

Roll paste to 1/4 inch thickness, cover bottoms of tins and bake 10 to 12 minutes in a hot oven.
Remove from tins and fill with:
One cup sugar, 2 tablespoons flour, 2 tablespoons corn starch, 1/4 teaspoon salt and 1 cup boiling water.
Mix sugar, flour, corn starch and salt together, add boiling water and cook, stirring constantly, directly over the fire.
When mixture is clear, place pan over water and cook 15 minutes. Then add:
Yolk of 3 eggs, juice of 2 lemons, grated rind of 1 lemon, 2 tablespoons butter.

Cook five minutes, remove from fire and cool.

Fill pastry shells and cover each with meringue made by beating until stiff the whites of 3 eggs and adding 1/2 cup powdered sugar and 1/4 teaspoon vanilla.
Set in a moderate oven for five minutes to brown delicately.

GOOD MANNERS
Clapping the hands is a natural form of applause and entertainers appreciate it. But stamping, whistling or any other unduly noisy acclamation is bad form. Even handclapping at the wrong time, or needlessly prolonged, annoys entertainers and audiences alike. A short, hearty round of applause at the right moment is quite in place, but there it should stop.

MARRIAGE A LA MODE

Among the Brahmins, marriages take place very early. A boy of six is often betrothed to a girl even younger.

When he is about 10 the marriage ceremony takes place. Then it is five or six years before they keep house together.

The preliminary ceremonies last about a week and take place in March, April, May or June. Second marriages are allowed only in November or February.

PROGRESS

WILDERNESS schools, towards which trudged the sturdy little feet of the children of Wisconsin pioneers, have gradually given way to more modern structures of learning, located conveniently in all sections of the State.

This rapid advance of education typifies the ideals of the people of the Badger State.

One of the mileposts indicating the spread of education is the telephone system of Wisconsin, making neighbors of people in separated sections and advancing the power of the spoken word.

80 SKATERS ENTERED IN FIRST ICE TOURNAMENT

First Ward And Jones Park Districts Combine Elimination Tournaments

Skaters From Two Districts Will Race At Jones Park Sunday Afternoon In First Preliminary Races

When entries for the first annual ice tournament to determine the skating championship of the city closed at noon on Wednesday it became evident that some changes in plans for holding the preliminary tournaments would be necessary because of the small number of entries in some of the districts. A total of 80 skaters entered the races, a satisfactory number considering that this is the first time an event of this nature has ever been attempted here and skaters are not quite sure just how much speed is necessary to have a chance to win.

In order to provide adequate racing programs at the preliminary events it has been decided to make some combinations in the elimination tournaments. There is not a sufficient number of entries in any one district to justify an elimination tournament for that district alone. In the First ward, for example, there is only one girl entered in the senior division and none at all in the intermediate division. At Jones park there is only one man entered in the senior division. Three girls in one event of the senior division and only two girls in one race of the intermediate division. In order to provide a good program it has been decided to hold the first elimination tournament at Jones park Sunday afternoon, Jan. 14, in which skaters from the First ward and Jones park districts will participate. In events where there are three or less skaters entered from any district no preliminaries will be necessary and the entrants will be automatically eligible for the finals on Jan. 23 in Jones park.

THIRD AND FIFTH COMBINE
The Third and Fifth ward skaters will hold their preliminary races together on the Fifth ward rink on Sunday, Jan. 21 to select the racers who will be eligible for the finals on Jan. 23.

Therefore the only race next Sunday will be at Jones Park in which skaters from the Jones park and First ward district will be the contestants.

Separate events will be held for the skaters of each district, that is no skater in the Jones park district will compete with First ward skaters next Sunday. If four or more First ward skaters are entered in any event they must race to see which three will skate in the finals on Jan. 23. A similar race will be held for the Jones park contestants if four or more are entered in an event, to pick three to enter in the finals. A similar example will make this clear. There are nine boys entered in the 220 yard dash for intermediates from the Jones park district. They will skate the required distance and the winners of the first three places will be eligible to race in the finals for the city championship. Five First ward boys have been entered in the same event and they will hold a separate race and the three boys winning first, second and third places will race two weeks later with the Jones Park. Third ward, Fourth ward and Fifth ward winners for the city title and the prizes.

This plan, it is believed, will give the spectators an interesting program and at the same time will carry out the tournament to pick three winners from each district to race for the championships and prizes.

The preliminary races for Third and Fifth ward skaters on the Fifth ward rink a week later will be conducted in precisely the same manner.

START AT 1 O'CLOCK

The race program will start promptly at 1 o'clock and every skater in the preliminary events must be on hand when his name is called, prepared to get into the races. Skaters are urged to study the names of entrants attached to this article so that they will know if they must take part in the elimination tournament. Remember if there are four or more skaters entered in the event in which you are scheduled to race, you must take part in the preliminaries because only the three skaters winning first, second and third places will enter the finals. If there are only three or less entered in the events in which you will skate, you will not be required to race in the preliminaries. The order of events and the rules which will govern the tournament will be printed on Friday and Saturday. The ice will be in first class condition so that there will be no impediment to high speed. Every person in Appleton is invited to witness the races. No admission charge of any kind will be made.

Following are the names of the skaters and the events in which they have been entered.

OSHKOSH HOPES TO WIN BASKET GAME

Sawdust City Knows Strength Of Appleton But Is Primed To Win

Oshkosh—Oshkosh high school is all ready to board the 1923 Fox River Valley conference basketball train this weekend, when the Blue and White goes to Appleton for its first conference action of the year.

All primed for a victory but decidedly not overconfident, the local squad of basket men will be obliged to bump off one of the strongest teams of the valley to start with.

HOPE TO DOWN JINX

Appleton has consistently hoodooed the Blue and White at basketball for two years. In 1921 and again in 1922 the Paper City visit has proved ruinous to the Oshkosh aspirations. That it won't happen again is the fondest hope of the fans and with that they are satisfied to leave it with Coach Abrahamson's quintet, believing that at last the Appleton jinx will be humbled.

HIGHS HAVE STARS TOO

Appleton has several stars, including Briesse of football fame and Ashman captain of Coach Denney's basketball five. But at that they will have to be pretty good to outclass the Blue and White's own Tom Reed, George Hotchkiss, Hobe Adams, Elmer Barsch, Ray Novotny or Peter Stryzewska.

Lead by these players, Oshkosh fans are hoping that the local team's entrance into the conference will not be disappointing.

WE FISHING AND HUNTING COLUMN

By M. J. V. Fose

FOXES SEEN ON ICE

Recently a red fox was shot at by a fisherman on the ice of Lake Winnebago near Oshkosh. Two more animals of this same species have been roaming over the ice at the north end of the lake where a number of small boys on skates followed the animals but evidently the skaters could not keep up with the fleet-footed foxes who beat them to the hills near High Cliff.

It is said that the pair seen at that end of the lake were probably the two animals that escaped from the little zoo at Waverly beach a year ago.

How would you enjoy hunting wild boar? Recently I received a letter from R. J. Fose, C. C. in the United States navy, and who is stationed at a supply base near Constantinople, Turkey. The letter in part reads:

"Last Sunday three of the boys here and myself went hunting in the Belgrade woods and in three hours we bagged six wild boars, 40 mallards, 15 rabbits and the mudhens are as thick as hair on a dog in this vicinity. The letter also stated: 'Head your 'Lizze' this way some Sunday and I'll show you some sport.'"

Evidently European sportsmen aren't keen for hunting as the American boys.

City Fathers Get Honor Of May Have To Tie Up Pins

Opening Elk Alley Tourney

Chief of Police George T. Prim and four city fathers will make up the bowling team which will have the honor of starting off the eleventh annual Elks State Bowling tournament, which will be held here from Jan. 27 to March 11 in the Elks clubhouse.

Assisting Chief Prim in shooting the first balls will be Aldermen Leslie Hansen, John Lappen, C. F. Smith and James Wood.

The selection of the City Fathers as the quint to open the tourney was announced Thursday by the tournament committee composed of Walter Miller, president; J. E. Johnston, vice president and James H. Balliet, secretary.

PINS WERE TIED

Coincidentally with this announcement it is recalled that a year ago when the Appleton Elks were also hosts for the antlered ten pin knights of the state, another team composed of Appleton city officials started the "ball a rolling." To make sure that the tourney would start off with a bang and which means "strikes" in the pin game, the committee in charge of the event had the pins tied together but despite this extra precaution one of the players failed to get a single pin as the 16 pounder rolled toward the pin boy via the gutter route. Those that recall the affair declare that it was City Attorney Theodore Berg who overlooked the pins.

ENTRIES CLOSE JAN. 14

Entries for the tournament will terminate officially Sunday. Between 300 and 500 teams, it is estimated, will have signed for games. Appleton alone will enter 65.

Oshkosh is showing considerable enthusiasm in the race for high entry honors. Secretary Balliet received a request for more application blanks from George Fulton, in charge of affairs at the Sawdust City.

Many of the smaller cities which are without lodges will have one or two teams present in the contest for ten pin laurels. The latest to enter in this class is Kiel. W. H. Johnson, member of the Appleton lodge, but who makes his home in Kiel, is gathering the antlered alley sharks in his village. George Schnalbach and George Nader, Elks, but who claim their residence in Darby, are scouting the vicinity for three more pin artists and will enter with the Appleton teams.

Badger Furnace Co. 24, Y. M. C. A. 10.
Kimberly-Clark 12, Interlake 10.
Badger Furnace 44, Neenah Kimberly-Clark 18.

The caging race in the Y. M. C. A. Industrial Basketball league turned into a triple tie for first place as the result of the games played Wednesday night in the "Y" gym. The Y. M. C. A., the Badger Furnace Co. and the Kimberly-Clark teams are on top. The next two teams are close behind for second place while the Neenah Kimberly-Clark are in the cellar, having accepted the standing of the "Y" Dormitory players, which found the other quint a bit too fast.

The Badger Furnace Co. players, playing two games, were the stars Wednesday night. In the opener they humbled the Y. M. C. A. by a score of 24 to 10. In the last affair the Furnace cagers amassed so many points against Neenah Kimberly-Clark that the score keeper was more than once thrown into confusion. The score was 44 to 18. Ability to shoot as well as to carry on team work gave the Appleton players the upperhand. The Neenah men played a stellar game and promise to creep up before the schedule is half over.

A rather close affair was fought out by the Kimberly-Clark team of Appleton and the Interlake quint. The score in this instance was 12 to 10. At the end of the first half the K. C. had four baskets to Interlake's two.

BELOIT TO COME HERE NEXT WEEK

Will Play Here In Place Of Carroll—Caging Test Early

Beloit college basketballers, last year's Little Five champions, will meet Lawrence three weeks earlier than original plans called for as the result of a switch in the schedule made Thursday at the request of Beloit.

Beloit asked to play here Jan. 20 instead of Feb. 8. The game will replace the game scheduled with Carroll. According to Coach McChesney the change was made to accommodate Carroll, which finds its original date inconvenient. Carroll, it was announced, will play here on Feb. 8.

Beloit's coming here next week means two stiff games in succession for the Blue and White. The Lawrence-Beloit battle will settle the dispute over the state caging title much earlier than the original schedule had intended, that is, if Lawrence wins from Ripon Friday night and Beloit travels along unbeaten.

ORGANIZE "Y" AQUATIC CLUB; WRIGHT IN CHARGE

Swimming will be an important department of the athletic activities of the Y. M. C. A. this winter. At a meeting Wednesday night a swimming club of about 20 men was organized.

Everett Wright, manager of the College Inn, an aquatic star de luxe, will be in charge of the club. The purpose of the organization will be to aid in teaching swimming, put on exhibition work and with a possibility later of forming a Red Cross Life Saving corps.

Mr. Wright's aquatic abilities are not altogether new to Appleton sport followers. He served for a number of years as swimming director at the Central branch of the Chicago Y. M. C. A. and has written a text book on swimming.

ANTIGO BOWLER ROLLS PERFECT SCORE OF 300

Antigo—Cash Schafer stepped into the professional class Thursday when he bowled a perfect score of 300. This is only the second time this feat has been accomplished in this city. Tony Kraus having bowled a perfect score in 1918. Cash has always been a good consistent bowler and has rolled many high scores. Shortly after the season opened this year he rolled a score of 239. This puts him in line for a medal from the National Bowling Congress.

RICKARD SIGNS FIRPO FOR BOUT IN NEW YORK

New York—Luis Firpo, Argentine heavyweight, who is clamoring for a world's title match against Champion Jack Dempsey, will clash with the winner of Thursday night's heavyweight bout between Bill Brennan, Chicago veteran, and Floyd Johnson, Iowa heavyweight, who is regarded as a promising candidate for title honors. Rickard announced that he had received Firpo's written consent to a bout against either Brennan or Johnson to be held in the garden within two months.

Few Home Tilts On H. S. Grid Map For Next Year

Fox River Valley High School Athletic Conference Maps Out Program—Elects Leon C. High Vice President

Although the opening of the 1923 football season is nine months away, Appleton high school football players are practically complete. Mapping out of the schedule for the local schedule was accomplished by the Fox River Valley High School conference which met Wednesday afternoon in Oshkosh.

In addition to the gridiron plans and minor changes in the basketball program for this winter, the conference elected officers. C. F. Cole, Green Bay, who was acting president since the resignation of former Principal Randall of Fond du Lac, was elected president. Leon C. High, member of the Appleton high school faculty and manager of athletics, was chosen vice president. A. O. Iverson, Sheboygan, was reelected secretary and treasurer.

SIGN SIX GAMES

The Appleton gridiron program calls for six conference games. Two other games are being arranged by high schools outside the valley; one will take the place of the Beatrice, Neb. affair. The opponents of these intersectional games will be among the strongest eleven in the state and will be the feature attractions of the season, according to the officials.

The schedule as arranged Wednesday follows:
Oct. 6—Appleton at Manitowish.
Oct. 13—Fond du Lac at Appleton.
Oct. 20—Appleton at West Green Bay.
Oct. 27—Appleton at Marinette.
Nov. 10—Appleton at Oshkosh.
Nov. 17—East Green Bay at Appleton.

It is possible that some of these dates will have to be changed in order not to conflict with the games arranged by Lawrence college.

CHANGE BASKETBALL DATE

The only change in the basketball schedule as far as Appleton is concerned was the decision that Appleton should go to Fond du Lac on Jan. 25 instead of the Fondy quint coming here.

Friday night Appleton high school cagers will meet the strong Oshkosh organization. The battle will start at 7:15 with the freshmen teams starting the double header. The main event will begin an hour later.

EVACUATION IS MORAL BLOW TO FRENCHMEN

Sight of French troops marching right through the American lines on an errand which the United States government had plainly disapproved was too much for American pride. The small number of troops had been kept there at the earnest request of the French who wanted not the numerical strength of the American army but its moral strength. They asked that the flag remain there as proof of Allied solidarity. What its withdrawal means, France can judge for herself. Naturally the American government will not appear to be doing anything but the normal thing in completing the withdrawal of the troops. The movement was begun some time ago and is just being carried out in entirety. Diplomatically, the American government can point to its previous policy but the French will know, of course, that the step was not without deep significance.

ANNOUNCEMENT DRAMATIC
Announcement of the decision of the American government was dramatic. The newspaper correspondents had called at the department of state and had been received by assistant secretary William Phillips, who, however, did not discuss European developments and the conference ended. The correspondents were half way out of the building when Mr. Hughes' clerk came running after them to say that the secretary of state had an important statement to make.

Mr. Hughes came into the room when the newspapermen were assembled again and with characteristic positiveness said:

"The time has come to complete the withdrawal of the American troops from the Rhine."

On being asked whether any new circumstances had arisen to bring about that decision, the secretary said he didn't want to say anything about it. He plainly intended that the statement should speak for itself. He wouldn't comment on the speech in Paris Tuesday of Roland Boyden, American unofficial observer on the reparations commission. He had nothing to say and hurried out of the room as quickly as he had come.

Attorney John Morgan was at Watoma on business Thursday and from there left for Madison to argue a case before the supreme court.

Fred Felix Wetzel, George R. Wetzel and John Trautmann left for Oshkosh Thursday to attend a two days' meeting of agents of the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Co. of Milwaukee.

Builders Have First Journey Behind Oxen

Laabs & Shepard, owners of the yoke of brown Swiss oxen, received statewide publicity Thursday afternoon by taking the delegates in attendance at the Master Builders' convention from Eagle hall to Lawrence Memorial chapel where the afternoon program was held. A heavy sleigh equipped with a hayrack to which the oxen were attached furnished the means of transportation.

The oxen visited Franklin, Columbus, Lincoln and Third ward school buildings Wednesday, where they attracted the attention of hundreds of pupils, many of whom had never seen oxen before. In each instance the children were given a short ride. The first and fifth ward school buildings were visited Thursday morning.

SEEKING BASIS OF HIGH WATER FIGHT

Conference Of Water Power
Men And Riparian Owners
Is Held In Oshkosh

Representatives of water power interests and advocates of relief from high water for riparian owners met in conference this week in Oshkosh to determine just where the two groups are at variance on the flooding situation.

Those attending the conference included F. J. Sengenbrenner of Neenah and Menasha Water Power Co.; Moses Hooper, attorney for water power owners; Alan H. Trapp, president of the Association for Relief of High Water; George E. Williams, attorney for the association; and George H. Randall, city engineer of Oshkosh. The conference followed the recent filing of the brief of the water power users in reply to testimony taken at the conference called at Oshkosh by Governor J. J. Blaine. At that conference riparian owners presented their side of the case, but the water power interests did not participate.

As a result of the hearing in Oshkosh, the war department has ordered the removal of the flashboards on the Neenah dam on and after Feb. 4, 1923. The brief of the water power interests contends that the war department has no jurisdiction to issue such an order.

STOMACH UPSET?

Get at the Real Cause—Take
Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles. Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Take Olive Tablets the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without gripping, cramps or pain.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like. 15c and 30c.

SKIDDING CAR STRIKES POLICE AUTOMOBILE

A conflict of destinations of three automobiles on Pearl-st hill resulted in a minor collision of the automobile of Dr. W. O. Dehne, 381 College-ave, with the police touring car driven by Officer Albert Deltgen, at about 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

While Officer Deltgen was attempting to pass another car in climbing Pearl-st hill, Dr. Dehne, approaching from the opposite direction, saw the police car and applied the brakes, but in doing so caused the car to swerve about and allow the fenders of the two cars to clash. A fender of Dr. Dehne's car was slightly damaged.

BEWARE OF DRUGS

Medical Authorities Advise Caution in Use of Preparations Liable to Contain Powerful Drugs.

Never drug your system to relieve or prevent colds, grippe or "flu." Drugs are liable to affect the nervous system or weaken the heart.

Hot medicinal tea is now recommended by many physicians, because it is best for the human system, acts quickly on the bowels and intestines by eliminating the excess poisonous wastes that usually tend to lower your physical resistance. Just pure, refreshing, healthful herbs from nature: that is why millions are now using Bulgarian Herb Tea to relieve and break up bad colds, and also keep the poisons flushed from the system. Many physicians now prescribe Bulgarian Herb Tea, and your druggist can honestly recommend it. adv.
